Churches Should Be Big.
Spending and Prosperity.
Children and Influenza.
Autos and Airplanes.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

(Copyright, 1928.)

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, JR., who understands human nature, encourages the building of Dr. Reisner's skyscraper church in New York, says "churches must be big enough to dominate skyscrapers. Material as well as spiritual dominance is needed."

THAT sound idea inspired builders of the old cathedrals. When the Pope ordered Michael Angelo to build St. Peter's in Rome, dominance was the idea, as it was in the building of the cathedrals of Cologne, Milan, Notre Dame and others.

To control men you must control their IMAGINATION.

THE world continues discussion of Henry Ford's statement that no boy ever saved money that amounted to anything. It was an interesting generalization, but Rockefeller, who saved money, amounted to something. Benjamin Franklin, who gave up eating meat that he might save money to buy books and saved money that he got by giving swimming lessons in London, amounted to something.

BUT, on the whole, it is a good thing that this is a spendthrift world, paying money out as fast as it comes in and often much faster. It is money spent that builds up prosperity, not the money saved.

LORD BEAVERBROOK, who owns the Daily Express and is one of England's smartest men, in the British and American meaning of that adjective, advises Britain to learn to buy and sell motors and other things on the installment plan, as we do here. Spending means business.

SEVEN HUNDRED THOUSAND are suffering from influenza. The disease is spreading rapidly, travels along lines of communication, railroads, crowded highways.

Teach young children not to put their fingers to their mouths or noses. Teach them that germs exist in the dust about them and when they put their hands to their mouths or noses they are planting germs on the mucous membrane.

FOR the first time a big airplane in flight takes oil from a smaller airplane. One thousand five hundred feet above Western Alabama, the little plane supplied a big army plane with 120 quarts of lubricating oil through a rubber tube. Later big army planes will take fuel from smaller planes.

THIS reminds you of small "worker" ants pumping food into the large and fat ant queen.

Before long, great planes several miles up above wind and storm, sailing round and round the earth, dropping passengers at Paris or Pekin in smaller planes, will take supplies from smaller airplanes, the giant circumnavigating planes landing at rare intervals.

THE king's five doctors are "happy to announce that the king's progress is now established on a firmer basis." It will be a happy Christmas for the British if they can keep the king who has served them so well, and in whom they have such perfect confidence.

LLOYD GEORGE, who, with Clemenceau, saved the British throne, is ill. His illness cannot compare in public interest with the illness of the king.

King worship goes far back. Democracy is new.

IN SPITE of 8 per cent "call money," Wall Street yesterday showed signs of a new boom in honor of the year 1929.

HENRY FORD, wishing to interest Britons in Ford prosperity, floated a company in England to manufacture Ford cars for Europe, selling stock at $5 a share.

He wanted Britons to own 40 per cent of the company, he keeping 60 per cent.

Americans were buying it yesterday at $13.75 a share, taking it away from the British, who apparently were satisfied to make a profit of 130 per cent in a week.

A DESERTER from the Italian army, captured in North Africa 12 years after he turned Mohammedan and fought against his country, was executed by shooting in the back. The disgraceful coward's death is supposed to make death more terrible.

Mussolini has old-fashioned ideas and good ones. The new twenty-lira piece, worth $1, bears an inscription worth many dollars:

"Meglio vivere un giorno da leone, che cento anni da pecora," meaning "it is better to live one day like a lion than one hundred years like a sheep."

It's hard to make a sheep believe it.

VINCENT RICE, 17 years old, who killed a 15-year-old high school girl, is allowed to plead guilty to second degree murder. Alienists testified that the boy was suffering from a "purity complex," rendering him psychopathically abnormal. That's an unusual complaint. He said he murdered the girl because she wanted to kiss him.

AUSTRIA is poor, but manages to spend $111,000,000 a year for alcoholic drinks, $20 yearly for every Austrian. That will depress good prohibitionists. But the Austrians at least get "real stuff." How much do you suppose this country spends for liquor that enriches bootleggers and undertakers?

TEACHINGS of religion, misunderstood, still cause suffering and torments the helpless.

Mrs. Elizabeth Engbarth told a neighbor, "my life merits the punishment of hell." Determined that her boy, four years old, should go to heaven and be an angel, she laid down with the child in her arms and turned on the gas. Fortunately the child's cries saved them.

Millions are tormented by the belief, instilled from childhood, that they are doomed to eternal torture for doing that which is simply the irresistible result of heredity, going back fifty millions of years.

MRS. ANNA E. BURKHART

Mrs. Anna E. Burkhart, 42, proprietress of a hotel at 4304 Second avenue, today testified in Morals Court hat she is the one who shot Joseph Lynch, 45, in her hotel. She says she mistook him for a burglar.

POLICEMAN, 4 OTHERS HELD IN SHOOTING

Patrolman C. P. Klockgether, of the Hazelwood Police Station, was suspended from duty and placed under arrest with four other persons in connection with the shooting of a Hazelwood hotel patron.

He was arrested in the West Penn Hospital early today where he had been taken following an automobile collision in Beechwood boulevard.

His revolver, found in the hotel, police said, was the one used in the shooting.

He suffered a probable fracture of the right arm in the auto accident.

Joseph Lynch, 45, of 4357 Chatsworth street, Hazelwood, the victim of the shooting, was reported in critical condition in the Homeopathic Hospital with bullet wounds in the breast and abdomen.

Mrs. Anna E. Burkhart, 42, proprietress of a hotel at 4304 Second avenue, where the shooting occurred, was arrested as were three boarders.

ADMITS SHOOTING

The woman said she did the shooting when arraigned in Morals Court this morning. She and Gordon Flanigan, William Menzer and William Fleming, roomers, were held without bail for further investigation. Mrs. Burkhart declared she mistook Lynch for a burglar and that she had found the revolver in the barroom. She did not know to whom it belonged.

Klockgether is under police guard and will be arraigned when released from the hospital. He re-

President Signs Boulder Dam Bill

BIG POWER PLAN NOW REALITY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(INS.)—President Coolidge signed the Boulder Dam bill today.

The long struggle of years to enact a measure that would control the flood waters of the Colorado River, protect the residents of the Imperial Valley of California and supply much-needed water and power to arid lands, was ended in the President's office at 10:20 o'clock this morning. The measure is now a law.

President Coolidge attached his signature to the bill with a pen brought to the White House by Representative Philip D. Swing (Rep.), of California, who, with Senator Hiram Johnson (Rep.), of California, fathered the project in its legislative form. The pen was saved for later presentation to George Young publisher of the Los Angeles Examiner.

WITNESS SIGNATURE

There were five witnesses to the signing of the bill. On either side of the President as he affixed his signature stood Senator Johnson and Representative Swing, who directed the long fight in Congress for its passage. Joining with them in the little ceremony were Representative Smith (Rep.), of Idaho, chairman of the House Irrigation Committee; Dr. Elwood Mead, commissioner of reclamation, and W. B. Matthews, counsel for the Los Angeles Bureau of Power and Light.

The special pen which Representative Swing brought to the White House for the President's use was mounted on an ornate block.

The measure provides that the government shall supply the $165,000,000 estimated as necessary to construct a dam and accompanying works in Black Canyon. The money is to be repaid under an amortization plan from proceeds of the sale of power.

HOME FIRST DUTY

MRS. HILTON PHILLIPSON AND HER CHILDREN

A mother's first duty is to her children, says Mrs. Hilton Phillipson, one of the eight women in Britain's House of Commons, and so she will retire from politics at the end of the present session to care for her 10-year-old twin boys and a younger daughter.

WOMAN LEAVES COMMONS FOR FAMILY

By CHARLES A. SMITH.
International News Service.

LONDON, Dec. 21.—Because she feels that a mother's first duty is to her children, Mrs. Hilton Phillipson, one of the eight women members of the House of Commons, is planning to retire from politics at the end of the present Parliamentary session, she told International News Service today.

Mrs. Phillipson, who is the mother of twin boys, aged 10, and a younger daughter, has been a member of Commons since 1922 when she won the Berwick-on-Tweed bye-election, caused by the disqualification of her husband.

FAITH IN WOMEN

Her announcement has revived the question whether women can ever take part in politics as freely and in such numbers as men. While confessing that she found parliamentary work a "whole time job," Mrs. Phillipson believes there are women who can do the work and run their homes as well.

"My own case is peculiar," said Mrs Phillipson. "When I

ARSON CHARGED IN KENSINGTON STORE FIRE

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Dec. 21.—The $100,000 fire which swept the two-story Edelson Building early today was incendiary, Fire Chief Edward Clawson said he believed.

The chief started an investigation immediately. He instructed police to search for a man he had seen loitering in front of the building early this morning.

The flames ruined much of the Christmas stock of the Edelson department store on the first floor and did much damage to the Crytzer bowling alleys on the second floor.

At 10 a. m., six hours after the fire was discovered, firemen finally succeeded in extinguishing the flames.

Clawson said that an hour or so before the flames were discovered he had seen a man acting suspiciously near the entrance to the store, which is in the heart of the business district in Ninth street.

A strong wind was prevailing when the flames broke out and before firemen arrived the fire had gained much headway.

SOSSONG GRANTED PAROLE

Attorney Leo F. Sossong, who went to jail with the collapse of the Carnegie, (Pa.) Ten-cent Building and Loan Association, was paroled today by Judge Ambrose B. Reid.

Sossong's counsel pleaded that his client's mind was affected, and his family penniless. Harry Phillips, who prosecuted Sossong for Allegheny County, agreed to the parole. Sossong served 33 months of a five-year sentence, pleading no defense to conspiracy, embezzlement and forgery. He and his late father, William Sossong, were both involved in the disappearance of some $250,000 from the Carnegie loan association. The elder Sossong, also sentenced to five years in the county jail, was paroled six months ago. Three months ago he died.

LIVINGSTON'S CASE TO BE APPEALED

Murray G. Livingston, dismissed chief inspector of weights and measures, will fight Mayor Charles H. Kline before the Civil Service Commission, he announced this afternoon.

Mayor Kline sent a final letter of dismissal to Livingston this morning. Informed unofficially of the Mayor's action, Livingstone announced that he would carry his case to the Civil Service Commission within five days, the time allowed for filing an appeal.

"I'll wait until I get the Mayor's letter before I take any action," said Livingston. "I certainly will put the matter before the Civil Service Commission. The Mayor's action, however, was not surprising to me."

Kline suspended Livingston in a letter stating that unless the latter made a satisfactory reply within

WILL TEST SLAYER'S SANITY

Paul Jaworski, convicted bandit and murderer, condemned to die in the electric chair December 31, today was granted a respite until January 21 by Gov. John S. Fisher.

The respite was granted so the State Board of Pardons might have time to decide whether a sanity commission should examine Jaworski. An appeal to the Governor was made by Jaworski's sister, Mrs. Catherine Logan, through Attorney M. Barney Cohen, in the hope that the bandit might win commutation on the grounds of insanity.

SISTER LEADS FIGHT

Appeal for the respite was made on the sister's initiative. Jaworski viewed the move with utter indifference and he was unmoved today when told it had been successful.

Warden John McNeil bore the tidings to the bandit in his cell at the county jail. Jaworski was lying on his cot, puffing away at the corncob pipe which he has substituted for the cigarets he may not smoke in jail.

"I AIN'T CRAZY"

"They've granted you a respite until January 21, Paul," Warden McNeil announced to the bandit.

"Yeah," said Jaworski, turning away.

"Well," said the warden, "Aren't you glad?"

"What have I got to be glad for?" the bandit mumbled.

"Hell," said Jaworski, "I ain't crazy."

Sunshine, Chill Kill Chicago Flu

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—"Out of the flu by Christmas," was the prediction today of Health Commissioner A. H. Kegel. ## TWO WOMEN, LONG FRIENDS, DIE WITHIN SEVEN HOURS

Two women long prominent in Jewish religious and philanthropic circles of Pittsburgh, Mrs. Julia Oppenheimer and Mrs. Maurice Falk, died within seven hours of each other today, in their apartments in the Hotel Schenley.

Mrs. Oppenheimer died at 12:30 a. m. after a brief illness. At 7:30 a. m. her friend of many years, Mrs. Falk, succumbed.

Born in Pittsburgh 77 years ago, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Frank, Mrs. Oppenheimer had spent her entire life here, first on Mt. Washington, later on the North Side, and for the last 17 years at the Hotel Schenley. Her husband, M. Oppenheimer, a merchant for 60 years, died last June 2.

Mrs. Oppenheimer for many years had taken an active part in the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies. She was a member of Rodeph Shalom Temple. She leaves two sons, Alfred M. and Oscar W. Oppenheimer, and a brother, I. W. Frank.

Mrs. Falk, likewise a native Pittsburgher, was born 81 years ago. She also took an active interest in the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies, the Montefiore Hospital and other Jewish community charities, and in the affairs of Rodef Shalom Temple.

She leaves her husband, two sisters, Mrs. H. E. Weiskopf and Mrs. Edward Oberndorfer, and a brother, S. S. Kleinordlinger, all of this city.

Funeral services will be held for Mrs. Falk at the hotel Sunday at 1:15 p. m. by the Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Goldenson, of Rodef Shalom Temple. Two hours later he will hold services for Mrs. Oppenheimer.

INFLUENZA SERUM HOPE OF U. S. HEALTH DEPT.

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—The chief hope of the Public Health Service officials and other medical scientists who have renewed their investigations of influenza, is the discovery of a serum which will act as a preventative or partial immunity for the disease.

Experts in the office of Surgeon Gen. Hugh S. Cumming said today that in all probability such a serum, or other means of stopping a flu epidemic such as is now threatening to sweep to every corner of the United States, will be developed.

Added to the experience obtained in the study following the 1918 epidemic will be the results of new investigations now in progress. While the former investigations had somewhat negative results, much information of great value was obtained.

No reports as to the spread of the present epidemic were available today. The Public Health Service has received figures for the week ending December 15 and next week will compile the reported cases by states for the week ending December 22.

CITY GARAGE THEFTS IGNORED BY POLICE, IS CHARGED

COUNCILMEN HEAR TALE OF GRAFT

Repeated thefts from the city garage, old Exposition Building, resulted from the indifference of the police bureau, according to charges made today at a meeting of Mayor Charles H. Kline, by members of Council and other city officials.

The meeting was called to investigate complaints that city bureau heads refused to store city automobiles in the municipal garage because the cars invariably were invariably stripped of valuable parts over night.

W. H. Monahan, garage superintendent, declared Joseph Goney, a former employe, was discharged after confessing to thefts of tires. Monahan said he made information before Alderman Thomas Flanagan against Goney, but did not follow the case through to determine what disposition was made of it.

IGNORE THEFTS

P. J. McArdle implied that the police bureau was negligent in not taking up the case after Goney's confession. McArdle declared that the continued thefts from the city garage were largely due to the inactivity of the police bureau.

"There are too many cases where the police bureau seems to think that thievery of city property is not wrong and therefore different from thefts from private citizens," McArdle said.

Under pressure, Monahan repeated conversations he had with members of a special councilmanic committee which investigated the garage. He said he was really responsible only for the machine shop, which was kept locked over night.

Monahan said he seldom saw the watchmen and believed they were there mainly to prevent fires. He said one of the watchmen appeared only on pay day and had declared that when he took the job he had no intention of working at it.

Mayor Kline suggested boarding up the building so that entrance could be made at only one door. The Mayor then suggested placing Monahan in full charge and if he failed in his duty the Mayor would discharge him "in five minutes."

The Mayor's suggestions were adopted in a motion by W. Y. English.

TODAY COLDEST OF SEASON

Pittsburgh shivered in the coldest weather of the season today. Mercury was depressed to 11 degrees at the weather bureau, while in nearby residential districts lower temperatures were recorded on tested thermometers. Mt. Lebanon reported 8 and Ingram 9.

The seasonable weather, Dr. E. P. Marks, head of the city bureau of infectious diseases, said probably would help materially to check the epidemic of coughs and colds which has prevailed throughout the country.

Local hospitals and school authorities say that the decrease in the number of those suffering from "flu" is becoming marked.

Besides being the coldest day of the season today is also the shortest and the first day of winter.

The frigid blast swept out of the Northwest last night and will linger here today. Tonight there will be little change in the temperature. Unless signs fail the cold wave will tarry briefly. Tomorrow it will be warmer, the weather bureau predicted. A low pressure area centered over Kansas today is expected to sweep eastward and deposit a blanket of snow.

KING GAINING STRENGTH

LONDON, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Today's bulletin from Buckingham Palace on King George, one of the briefest yet issued, brought the satisfactory news that he had passed a restful night calculated to help build up his strength from the extreme exhaustion caused by his prolonged and grave illness.

The bulletin was felt to indicate that there was nothing appreciable to add to what on the whole was considered a favorable situation. This morning's bulletin read:

"The King has had a restful night. There is no appreciable change to be noted."

The view taken in palace circles, it was learned, coincided with the public impression from the bulletin that His Majesty is continuing to gain slowly.

KIDNAP GANG MENACES JUDGE

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—A threat against the life of the trial judge and the disappearance of 10 state witnesses adds to the terrorism, including assassination of one witness, that has marked the trial of three defendants accused of kidnaping little Billy Ranieri. The state seeks to send the kidnapers to the electric chair.

Opening of the trial was delayed two hours yesterday when Judge Robert E. Gentzel received a letter similar to those threatening the Ranieri family and other state witnesses.

Miko Divito, state witness, who, he prosecution charged, has been marked for death, defied his enemies by testifying that one of the defendents had blackmailed him two years ago. Divito barely escaped assassination recently when Ole Scully was slain. His testimony, given in the absence of the jury, was ruled out by the court.

GETS DEATH THREAT

The state rested its case after failing to present Divito's story to the jury and the defense presented Andrew Cappellano, one of the three defendents who declared he did not know Billy had been kidnaped when the boy was brought to his home at Bourbonnais, Ill., by two men, one of whom he said was Tony Perconti and the other known to him only as Romano.

Cappellano said the men told him Romano was the boy's uncle, but he questioned Billy and found this was not so. When he insisted he did not want to keep Billy, he said they threatened him with death. Cappellano, his son, Tony, 16, and Angelo Petitti are the defendants.

The disappearance of the state's witnesses was reported shortly before the state closed its case when detectives hunting the men, including relatives of Divito and of Ole Scully, state witness, who was killed Monday, said they were unable to find any trace of them.

five days his discharge would be permanent.

REPLIES TO MAYOR

Livingston replied to Kline yesterday in a letter stating the "good of the service" reason was "evasive" and called upon the Mayor to amplify the charge.

Kline's letter today stated:

"I beg leave to advise you that the answer you have filed with me bearing date of December 20, 1928, with reference to my letter to you of December 15, 1928, is not satisfactory and your services as chief inspector in the division of weights and measures are hereby permanently discontinued."

Livingston was suspended shortly after his testimony before the Civil Service Commission resulted in the reinstatement of A. L. Nolan, an inspector of weights and measures.

Livingston testified he acted upon orders from Mayor Kline when he told Nolan on election day last May to "go home and stay home," for failing to carry out political orders.

COUNTY POLICE MAKE FIRST RAID IN CITY

District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner's threat to police the city with county detectives was carried out today when his sleuths bore down upon the Potter Hotel in the Hill district and arrested 36 men as the chief figures of a great lottery ring.

The raid was the first to Gardner's inferential warning to Mayor Kline that testimony before the graft-probing grand jury indicated the city police were not functioning properly, that they were idle in the face of promiscuous lawbreaking, and were encouraging graft.

The prisoners, all Negroes, were escorted to the county jail, and Detective Chief George Murren prepared charges against them.

Detective James S. McGinley, who led the raiders, said a complaint had been received by the county authorities against the lottery. Heretofore, complaints received by the county sleuths against lawbreaking in the city had been turned over to Police Superintendent Peter P. Walsh.

Harry Collins and George Potter, two of the arrested men, were named the proprietors.

The detectives reported seizing some cash, three adding machines and lottery records.

I have asked myself whether it is possible or desirable to try to continue loyal service to the House of Commons and combine it with educating my children. Frankly, I say it is not. ## Iowa Corn-Fed Hogs Fatten Church

REMSEN, Ia., Dec. 21.—(INS.)—Iowa pigs, fattened on Iowa corn, are paying off the debt of St. Joseph's Catholic Church at Milford, near here.

Last spring, the pastor, Rev. Father E. Meyers, was worried about the mounting debt. His congregation was poor and and the parish faced certain bankruptcy. Then the pastor suggested to his farmer parishioners that they each fatten a pig and donate it to the church. This was done.

Several days ago the hogs were sold for $10,000 which was applied against the debt. Other pigs will soon be ready for market and Father Meyers hopes to wipe out the entire debt early in the new year.

Lieut. Martin O'Toole and a squad of patrolmen were called to the hotel and found Lynch lying on the floor at the rear of the barroom.

GUN IN BARROOM

The revolver, which was found in the barroom, was identified by police as that of Patrolman Klockgether, who was off duty yesterday.

Klockgether was taken to the hospital after a machine in which he was riding with two other men collided with the automobile of Earl E. Elrick, of 595 Hazelwood avenue.

Mrs. Burkhart admitted, police said, that she had shot Lynch, later changing her story to say she knew nothing of the affair. Lynch could give no reason for the shooting, but said the woman shot him without warning. Klockgether has thrown little light on the affair, police declared.

Big Circus Merger Plans Fall Through

UNGER PLEADS "GUILTY" IN DRUG TRIAL

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Joseph Unger, on trial as agent of an international narcotics syndicate believed to have been financed by Arnold Rothstein, slain gambler, changed his plea to guilty in Federal Court today.

Unger was indicted on four counts but on change of his plea two were merged and one was dropped. The remaining counts, possession of narcotics and conspiracy to violate the narcotic laws, carry maximum penalties of 10 and 2 years respectfully. Sentence will be imposed January 4.

$2,000,000 IN TRUNKS.

Unger was taken from a train at Buffalo after two trunks for which he held the checks had been seized at the Grand Central Terminal and found to contain $2,000,000 worth of narcotics.

The Federal agents made the seizure and arrest on information found in the business files of Rothstein.

United States Attorney Tuttle said he would ask for a maximum sentence. He added he had not yet decided what course to take about Mrs. June Boyd, arrested in Chicago and Mrs. Esther Meyers, arrested here, who have been held as material witnesses against Unger.

Half a dozen witnesses were under orders to appear before the federal grand jury today at its inquiry into the drug ring's activities.

Mollie Schoenbach, 32, believed to be an agent of the smuggling syndicate, was arrested in Detroit and brought here today for questioning.

Inner workings of the ring were bared by Tuesday's seizure on the Jersey City piers of $5,000,000 worth of "junk," shipped here from Havre, France, in cases marked "scrubbing brushes."

PEACE PACT VOTE TO BE PUSHED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The naval construction bill and the Kellogg peace pact come before the Senate on an equal footing after the Christmas recess, but the treaty proponents are laying plans to get first action then.

An agreement proposed by Chairman Borah, of the Foreign Relations Committee, making each of the proposals the unfinished business after the holidays, was accepted by the Senate after it had engaged in a two-day row over taking up the naval bill immediately.

The naval bill is the unfinished business on the executive calendar. While the agreement left the way open for consideration of each proposition daily, the treaty advocates believed today they had the votes to keep their proposal constantly before the Senate until acted upon.

BORAH HOLDS EDGE

It appeared that Senator Borah had gained the whip hand in the controversy over priority of the two. A motion to go into executive session for the consideration of treaties and nominations is privileged under Senate rules.

So, if at the outset of each daily session, the Idaho senator puts his motion for consideration of the treaty and has the votes, he will be in a position to push it to a vote ahead of the Naval bill, he believes.

The agreement reached yesterday ended several hours of negotiations instituted by Senator Curtis, of Kansas, the Republican leader, when a filibuster was threatened against the Naval bill which might have lasted until the Christmas recess begins on Saturday.

RADIO SANTA DELUGED BY CHILDREN'S PLEAS

If you're old enough to read this, you may not believe in Santa Claus, anyhow.

But you can tell those who do that there are still many thousands of people in the world, little people, mind you, who are worrying tired little brains to devise things to ask for—and how to ask for them—in their annual missives to the good St. Nick.

Many thousands of letters are being sent to various agencies, in spite of anti-Santa propaganda that modern children didn't believe.

In past years, Postmaster George W. Gosser and his staff had to have answered thousands of these quaint little scrawls. Somehow they were answered. They were addressed to the "North Pole," and they knew that Mr. Gosser alone had exclusive rights of accession to the palatial palace in the far north where Santy held forth.

NOW IT'S RADIO SANTA

But today it's different. No longer do busy postal clerks have to answer them. The radio Santy has taken the place of the clerk.

The Santa letters are pouring in by the thousands to WCAE, radio station, where Santa is daily giving his counsels to the kiddies through the microphone. Here the letters from John and Billy, Mary and Jane, asking him to put a "choo choo" or a doll in their Christmas stockings, have piled up so high in the last few days that he had to call in two assistants. "Cousin Lora" and "Uncle Gimbee" are his able collaborators. When Kris Kingle is busy supervising the packing of gifts, they entertain the kiddies with Christmas and bedtime stories.

"I would like to get a sheepskin coat and a tool box. My sister wants a pair of gulosishes, a large doll and a sewing basket. My brother Fred is 15. He does not think there is a Santa, so he will not get anything for Christmas."

Six-year-old Jean Young, of Wilson, writes:

"Please bring me a baby doll and a laundry set to do Dolly's washing. I'm a good girl most of the time."

"How would you like to go up north with me?" writes Carol Schauer, of 1511 Juniata street, North Side, and asks Santa to bring her a baby doll, a raincoat and velocipede.

WILKINS FLIGHT REVEALS SIX UNCHARTED ISLANDS

U. S. Norse In Memorial To Amundsen

FEARN MURDER PROBERS SEEKING THIRD WOMAN

MAP BLANKS FILLED BY LONG TRIP

By CAPT. SIR HUBERT WILKINS
Commander of the Wilkins-Hearst Antarctic Expedition.

(Copyright, 1928, by New York American and Universal Service, Inc.)

DECEPTION ISLAND, Antarctica, Dec. 21.—(Via Whaler Hektoria and KUP, San Francisco Examiner wireless station.)—Our flight of 1,200 miles over hitherto unknown territory has resulted in the discovery of six previously uncharted islands.

This is the second outstanding result of our air-cruise flight, which enabled us to look 600 miles south across the Antarctic wastes, over a region which we believe never before has been seen by human eyes.

AGE-OLD RIDDLE SOLVED

The islands will be mapped later, after we have had an opportunity to go over the data collected during the hazardous nine-hour spin above the icy ranges of Graham Land.

Our first and most important discovery was described in my dispatch of yesterday. We solved a riddle that puzzled geographers for centuries, by learning that Graham Land is itself an island, with an ice-filled channel separating it from the great polar continent.

WHEELS FOR SKIIS

When we unloaded the machines from the Hektoria on which, through the generosity of the Hektor Whaling Company of Toustsberg, they were on pontoons, but the water at that time was too ice-strewn to allow a takeoff. We cleared the beach and hauled the machines ashore, fitted skiis and waited. Weeks of cloudiness, snow, sleet and rain kept us on the ground. Then came a clear day.

NEW TERRITORY SEEN

By 9:20 we were already over Graham Land, viewing new territory and heading toward discovery of more than 300 miles of coastline.

Our course lay a little west of south. The west coast of the land is comparatively well known. Sealers frequented it more than 100 years ago.

On both sides the coast of Graham Land is indented with deep fiords and bays and the tableland which tops it follows a through course. In places, and especially between King Oscar and Danco coasts, in latitude 65, the tableland is narrowed until only a few miles separate Weddell and Belgica seas opposite Foyn Island and Weather Island. The level ice shelf, following a twisted channel, almost exactly on the Antarctic circle, cuts Graham Land in half.

The southern half broadens slightly in latitude 67 and opposite its most easterly point, about 50 miles south of Weather Island is another island, this heretofore uncharted. It is larger than Weather Island and, like most islands in that vicinity, slopes gradually, comparatively speaking, from the north and ends abruptly with sheer cliffs on southern side.

GLACIERS CRISS-CROSSED

On the southern end of Graham's Land there are not, as on the northern, conspicuous table lands. Opposite Sallieres Coast a deep bay cuts in from the west and into this bay flows steeply four huge glaciers, frightfully criss-crossed. Nearing latitude 70 the range begins to peter out.

The ice shelf and tumbled snow slopes seem to engulf and smother the hills. Level ice about that latitude appears to reach across to the unmapped sector between Margaret Bay and Charcot Land.

SIGHT LOW ICE SHELF

To the east of us was plainly seen a low ice shelf bordering a smooth snow slope. It looked like a roughly pencilled line on a clear white sheet and closing itself in the distance.

It marked, we believe, the western edge of the Weddell Sea and the northern limits of the Polar continent longitude.

Between latitudes 70 and 71 north and longitudes 60 and 70 west is apparently a low land, mostly snow-covered, and immediately south of that is a strait which appears to be about 30 or 40 miles wide. Beyond this the ice cliff previously mentioned as bordering the Weddell Sea continues to the westward, and beyond stretched an unbroken slope southward as far as the eye could see. It probably continues to the Polar plateau discovered by Shackleton and on which Amundsen and Scott planted the flags of their respective countries 15 years ago.

Reluctantly we turned about and headed north. We had settled perhaps the most interesting problem presented in our plans, yet we were gloomy and depressed. Why, oh, why had we not sufficient gasoline to carry us on to the Ross Sea and complete our job? The season, or fate, had forbidden it.

Mrs. Coolidge Visits Mother in Hospital

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Mrs. Calvin Coolidge visited her mother, Mrs. Lemira Goodhue, twice yesterday at the Dickinson Hospital. Later she did some Christmas shopping on Main street and went for dinner to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Hemenway.

LAUNDRESS RELEASED BY SLATER

CANTON, O., Dec. 21.—Stark county authorities today were to renew their efforts to find Mary Stenger, Akron business woman, who remains as the second mystery woman in the life of Wilbur O. Heldman, held in default of $25,000 bond in connection with his wife's death.

At the outset of the official inquiry into the alleged suicide of Heldman's pretty 21-year-old girl-wife, Margaret, two women were wanted for questioning. One was Maud Radcliff, Akron laundress, otherwise known as Maud Heldman, and who is said to have been Heldman's common law wife for a period of seven years. Miss Stenger is the second.

HIGH HAT LAUNDRESS

Miss Radcliff, nattily attired and plenty "high hat," appeared before Prosecutor Henry W. Harter, Jr., and Detective Ora Slater yesterday. She was released after a long questioning. Miss Stenger, also known to have been friendly with Heldman, disappeared this week.

Heldman's wife has been almost positively identified as the murderess of Vernard E. Fearn, Waco coal dealer, and, according to her husband, took her own life as he was driving her to Canton to turn her over to Sheriff Edward Gibson, after, he said, she had confessed she killed Fearn.

STORY DOESN'T CHECK

Discrepancies in Heldman's story and public sentiment for a thorough investigation prompted his arrest and Slater, who is credited with unraveling some of the state's most baffling crimes, was called in on the case.

Little was learned from Miss Radcliff Thursday aside from a few facts concerning Heldman's past life. Slater said after the questioning. The woman spent more than two hours behind closed doors with the officers.

Miss Radcliff and Heldman parted company two years ago, it was learned.

"You were never married to Heldman were you" she was asked.

"No, his is a funny world isn't it?" she replied.

While the authorities continued to question acquaintances of Mr. and Mrs. Heldman in an effort to learn of their marital difficulties, Assistant Prosecutor James Aungst and Deputy Sheriff George Thorn were in Lorain checking Heldman's movements during the week of the murder of Fearn and the alleged suicide of Mrs. Heldman.

LIE UNCOVERED

Heldman is said to have told the officers that his wife left her home in Lorain Monday preceding the Fearn murder without his knowledge but investigation has shown that he took her from a store in which she was employed by displaying a badge and saying she was wanted in Canton for child abandonment.

A "suicide note" which is said to have been written by Mrs. Heldman and which was dated two days later than when he said she disappeared also remains as one of the discrepancies in his story.

U. S.-BRITISH SHIPPING WAR LOOMS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—The menace of a shipping war with Great Britain looms today over the proposed use of the S. S. Caronia by the British-owned Cunard Line to carry passengers between New York and Cuba this winter.

Bitterly protesting this action, Vice Chairman Plummer, of the United States Shipping Board, yesterday suggested to the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee the use of discriminatory duties against British vessels used in such trade.

Plummer pointed out that the use of this palatial trans-Atlantic liner will "skim the cream" of the winter trade between Cuba and this country and wipe out the anticipated profits of American lines. He said it was especially significant in view of the fact that American lines were now building new vessels under the Jones-White shipping law for use in the Cuban trade.

Following the meeting, members of the committee said they would study the action of the Cunard Line carefully to see if it was another instance in the apparent attempt of British interests to drive American shipping from the seas.

In the event such a course is necessary, the committee will recommend the imposition of discriminatory duties in line with Plummer's suggestion. This can be accomplished either by placing a head tax on passengers arriving on board British vessels or by increasing the customs duties on imports. The present maritime treaty with Great Britain permits of this action.

U. S. Enjoyed Best Health in 1927, Report Shows

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(AP.) The American people were at about the peak of health during 1927.

This was disclosed yesterday in a Commerce Department report, announcing that the national death rate for the year had dropped to 11.1 persons per 1,000 population. In 1926 the rate was 12.3, which in turn was a figure considerably lower than that of preceding years.

Heart disease was the most frequent cause of mortality, while cancer, tuberculosis, pneumonia and kidney diseases were next.

PLEADS GUILTY TO FRAUDS

A plea of guilty to an indictment charging embezzlement of about $50,000 from 16 bankrupt estates was signed today by Elliott Frederick, who acted as trustee in the bankruptcy proceedings. Frederick is now in jail on a contempt of court charge, having failed to file reports in the cases to Referee in Bankruptcy W. D. Adair, as ordered by the court.

Frederick was taken to the office of the United States District Attorney John D. Meyer this morning to sign the plea. It was stated that partial restitution would be made, and that Frederick would purge himself of the contempt charge by filing reports. He will come up for sentence early next year.

FAMOUS OLD WALDORF DOOMED BY PROGRESS

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, famous as a center of New York social life for two generations, has been doomed to the wrecking bar.

Announcement of the sale of the property and plans to erect a 50-story office building on its site at Fifth avenue and Thirty-third street, was made by Lucius M. Boomer, president of the Waldorf-Astoria Realty Corporation. The Bethlehem Engineering Corporation is the purchaser. Demolition of the structure is to begin next summer.

The Waldorf-Astoria originally was two hotels, which were welded into one. The original hotel, the Waldorf, was opened in 1893 on the site of the mansion of William Waldorf Astor, who erected it shortly before he went to make his home in England and became Lord Astor of Cliverden. Four years later the home of John Jacob Astor, adjoining on the Thirty-fourth street frontage, was replaced by the Astoria and the two hotels were joined under the hyphenated name.

At the time of its opening the most luxurious hotel in America, the Waldorf-Astoria soon became more than a mere hotel. It was an institution and its name a symbol for the ultra-fashionable in the social life of the metropolis.

Visiting royalty stopped at the Waldorf-Astoria, among the first being the Infanta Eulalia and other Spanish nobles on their way to the world's fair in Chicago. The King and Queen of Belgium made it their headquarters during their visit to America after the World War, and the Prince of Wales also has been a guest.

"Peacock Alley," a name given to one of the main floor corridors, where fashionable women were wont to promenade and display their finery, became known throughout the country.

"I wish to thank you, and to tell you how very much pleased I am with the result," Mrs. Scully wrote. "The picture is very faithfully presented both in color and form, and it is truly surprising that this has been done upon the rapidly moving newspaper presses. I have ordered a number of copies to send to friends—even so far as San Francisco and San Diego, the Argentine and abroad."

Christmas Seal Of 1907 Valued At $7.50

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Some Christmas seals are worth $7.50. This, as Dr. Max Biesenthal explains, in case you may have thought of them only as lowly messengers of mercy to tuberculosis sufferers. Dr. Biesenthal said today that the seals have found their way into stamp collections alongside the stamps of the world, and that their value increases as the years pass.

The first seal, issued in 1907, has a market value of $5, Dr. Biesenthal said, if it reads "Merry Christmas," and $7.50 if it reads "Merry Christmas and Happy New Year."

FLINN ESTATE AUDITED

Final accounting in the William E. Flinn estate is expected in Orphans' Court early in January, according to Joseph N. Mackrell, register of wills. The final audit was submitted to the court late yesterday.

PARIS-BERLIN REPARATIONS PACT MADE

PARIS, Dec. 21.—Complete agreement on the machinery for the "definite settlement" of Europe's everlasting post-war problem of German reparations, was finally reached last evening at a conference between Premier Poincare and German Ambassador Von Hoesch.

The formal communique announcing the agreement is slated for today. It will outline the principal provisions of the agreement, including a joint invitation by Germany and the Allies for the nomination of two American experts to participate in the solution of the problem.

In general, the agreement pursues the lines previously forecast:

1. Appointment of allied experts by the Reparations Commission on the nomination of respective governments.
2. German experts to be named by the Berlin government.
3. Selection of two American experts.
4. The experts to be an independent body and to make a complete study of reparations problems, with recommendations which the governments will be free to consider as advisory.
5. The experts to assemble in Paris early in January to begin their work.

The selection of the two American experts is expected to follow substantially the same procedure by which Gen. Dawes and Owen Young participated in the drafting of the Dawes plan. There will be an invitation to Washington to name the Americans. This will be done as a matter of courtesy, while it is expected that the Washington government will avoid actually naming the men, but signify its willingness to have two Americans serve.

The Europeans will arrange to invite individual Americans who will be satisfactory all around.

HEARS FROM WILKINS

SCIENTIST LAUDS GREAT DISCOVERY BY WILKINS

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—"Apropos of the amazing news from the Wilkins-Hearst Antarctic expedition that its commander, Capt. Sir Hubert Wilkins, has, by a hazardous 1,200-mile flight over the ice regions established the fact that Graham Land is separated from the South Polar main region by an ice-filled water channel, I wish to express my appreciation of the great contribution to science the Hearst papers are making in backing this expedition."

Orson D. Munn, editor of the Scientific American and man of scientific achievements himself, made this declaration in discussing the first antarctic exploit of Wilkins. He added:

"Of the few remaining unexplored areas of the earth there is no other, perhaps, which offers so many puzzles to the scientific world as the antarctic. The solution of some of its many mysteries by Capt. Wilkins will materially enlarge the scope of human knowledge.

"My warmest congratulations on the results thus far achieved."

Mr. Kinnard reached the city today for a conference with F. J. Chesterman, local vice president and general manager, and other Bell officials. After an inspection of the Bell properties, Mr. Kinnard said that the new buildings in Wilkinsburg and West View would be completed in 1929.

SMALL CHURCH'S DAY GONE, SAYS J. D. ROCKEFELLER, JR.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(INS.)—The day of the small church is over in New York City, and in other large cities, in the opinion of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., who is actively working today to assist in the raising of funds for the Broadway Temple, the "skyscraper church" now under construction.

Mr. Rockefeller already has given $250,000 toward the project and has pledged $100,000 more if the pastor, Dr. Christian F. Reisner, raises $500,000 by the end of the year. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, noted Baptist pastor of this city, today expressed similar views. He declared that the new Broadway Temple will "dramatize religion" and attract the imagination of the city.

PASTORS DIVIDED

Prominent Pittsburgh ministers are divided as to the statements of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick that the day of the small church is over in large cities and that "skyscraper" churches will dramatize religion and attract the imagination of the city.

"In general, Mr. Rockefeller's statements are true," was the comment of the Rev. Dr. W. I. Wishart, pastor of the Eighth United Presbyterian Church, and president of the Pittsburgh Federal Council of Churches.

"While the day of the passing of small church is not yet here, there is, however, an increasing tendency in big cities towards building larger churches," he said.

CHECKS FOSDICK

Dr. Wishart professed less sympathy for Dr. Fosdick's assertion that the "skyscraper" church will dramatize religion. He said: "A 'skyscraper' church is not going to have much effect upon a man's religious devotion.

"It is not the building that makes for great religious devotion, but the type of religion that is preached from its pulpit," said Dr. Wishart.

The Rev. Dr. George W. Shelton, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, Eighth street, is in complete disagreement with the Rockefeller and Fosdick assertions. He said:

"The small church will always maintain its vital influence in big cities. It comes much closer to the people than the large church can. Religion cannot be bought, as religion is not a business."

DAWES SAYS GOODBY TO PAGES WITH DINNER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Vice President Dawes was host to the pages and staff of the Senate at a banquet last night in the Senate restaurant.

The dinner, an annual affair in which official decorum is relaxed to provide a bit of merriment for those who work daily in the Senate chamber, was in the nature of a farewell to the Vice President, who retires from office March 4.

James D. Preston, superintendent of the Senate press gallery, who was the toastmaster, presented to the presiding officer of the Senate a replica of the inkstand on his desk and a gavel fashioned after the pipe which Mr. Dawes made famous in the campaign of four years ago.

DOG KILLED AS RAIDER

Because "Wolf," a large German police dog, is thought to have been preying upon fowl and live stock in O'Hara township recently, he was shot yesterday by police. Constable R. W. Johnson shot the dog after he had found the animal responsible for numerous raids on chicken sheds. The last complaint was made Monday night when a dog killed 14 prize Leghorn chickens of Joseph Zortoski.

Yesterday the dog appeared at the home of Mrs. Jacob Hoffer, 61, of Winchel street, and bit the woman on the right arm.

TWO CHURCHES PREPARE FOR MERGER

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Complete merger of the Congregational and Christian denominations was forecast in the recommendations of a joint committee representing the two churches, announced last night in a joint statement by the Rev. Dr. Frank Knight Sanders, of Rockport, Mass., and the Rev. Dr. Frank G. Coffin, of Columbus, chairmen, respectively, of Congregational and Christian commissions.

"A new united national denominational organization, the General Council of the Congregational-Christian Churches, will be formed, it is proposed, in October, 1929," the announcement said.

"The merger, if consummated, will be the largest union of distinct denominations in the United States. The Congregational churches number 5,548 with 528,558 members. The Christian churches number 950 with 114,136 members."

Dr. Sanders and Dr. Coffin believe that the plan of union "points the way to genuine Christian unity among the Protestant churches of America."

"It is based," they said, "upon the broad, sane principles that every denomination should be free to preserve the things which it holds especially sacred and the ways to which it is peculiarly accustomed and yet should yield sovereignty in the matters which are actually of common interest to the whole church of Christ. Upon this platform a very large number of denominations might easily unite and such a union might properly be called the United Church of Christ in America."

Aldermen's Meeting To Discuss Charter

THEATER PARTY IS NEWSBOYS' YULE TREAT

Pittsburgh's 5,000 newsboys will have a mammoth Christmas theater party next week.

Loew's Aldine theater and the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, co-operating, have arranged a four-day party, beginning next Monday morning. Tuesday will be excepted, because of Christmas Day, but Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday mornings will be available for the newsies, and tickets will be obtained through the Sun-Telegraph circulation department.

The management of the Aldine Theater has obtained for the week, "Brotherly Love," a picture peculiarly adaptable for such parties. The picture is synchronized with music and sound effect, and is one of the best comedies of the year.

Karl Dane and George K. Arthur, two comics in the peak of their laugh-provoking careers, will be featured in the picture. In addition, there will be movietone news and short features.

Oscar, the prison guard, is Karl Dane's role, and Jerry, manager of a ladies' beauty shop, belongs to Arthur. Soon Jerry is sent to Oscar's prison. They are sworn enemies. The fun begins.

The plan is that 1,000 newsboys shall see a complete show each morning, so that in the course of the week, all of them will have been able to attend. Admission is only by ticket, and blue tickets are for Monday, pink for Wednesday, white for Thursday and yellow for Saturday.

BOY TO START LIFE TERM

STANTON, Mich., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Jimmy Deacons, 15-year-old school boy, was to leave today for Jackson prison, where he is sentenced to spend the remainder of his life for the murder of Miss Flossie Carter, his former teacher.

The youth, who confessed he killed Miss Carter in revenge for a "beating" she once administered while he was her pupil, listened to Judge Royal A. Hawley sentence him to life imprisonment without the slightest show of emotion.

Before pronouncing sentence, Judge Howley listened to four witnesses to determine the degree of guilt. He found the youth guilty of first degree murder. The boy's father and grandfather, John and James Deacons, respectively, were in the courtroom. The boy's mother waited in an adjoining room.

Prevent Attacks of Colds and "Flu"

USE NOZOL

To Keep the Nostrils Clear and Healthy

"Spray the nostrils and throat with an oil to keep them lubricant. 'Flu' and grippe germs cannot take hold in membranes that are well lubricated" ... such is the advice being given out by leading health authorities.

And for this purpose all urge the use of a highly effective preparation... NOZOL.

Spray or drop a little Nozol in each nostril and the throat two or three times a day. The antiseptic oils cling to the linings, protecting you against the germs.

Nozol costs but little and you should get a bottle today at your druggist. Take no chances, particularly with the present prevalence of flu.

GRAFF BOOMED FOR SUPERIOR BENCH

Judge J. Frank Graff, of Armstrong County, was being boomed today for the vacancy on the State Superior Court bench.

Especially significant appeared the indorsement of Graff by District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner, who I made had been mentioned for the position.

Today, after he had talked with Judge Graff and W. L. Mellon, former state Republican chairman, and County Commissioners Joseph G. Armstrong and E. V. Babcock, Gardner said:

"I shall do whatever I can for Judge Graff. That appointment should be given to the western end of the state by Gov. Fisher, but not to Allegheny County."

It is probable that the political leaders of the county will reach some sort of agreement tonight at the caucus of the state senators and representatives in the City-County Building.

The legislators also will make up their minds on whom they want as Speaker of the House. Although Aaron U. Hess is of Lancaster County, it is expected that he will receive Allegheny County's indorsement.

The Graff boom is expected to eliminate Mayor Kline as a candidate, although Attorney General Thomas J. Baldrige is still regarded as a candidate, possibly the favorite of Gov. Fisher, who will make the appointment.

CHAMBERLAIN HINTS NEW U. S. PACT

LONDON, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The possibility of a new arbitration treaty between the United States and England received official attention in the House of Commons yesterday just before that body adjourned for the Christmas recess.

The attention was of non-committal sort, however, and merely indicated that such a pact, the subject of some prior discussion at both Washington and London, was receiving some consideration.

The discussion followed upon questioning of Sir Austen Chamberlin by Liberal members with references to evacuation of the Rhineland, Anglo-American relations and relations with the Soviet.

PRESENT CLOUD REGRETTED

Referring to Anglo-American relations, Sir Austen said he profoundly regretted that a little cloud had come over them recently, but he refused to believe that between two nations both so peacefully minded and so friendly to each other, these passing differences would create any permanent disturbance of relations.

He then referred to the arbitration treaty and said that His Majesty's government had made a very careful inquiry and consideration of the very large issues involved but had not yet reached a conclusion which enabled it to proceed further in negotiations with the United States government.

The Foreign Minister explained that he had desired the old arbitration treaty extended to cover the time needed for consideration of the "new proposals" which, he said, had come as a surprise, since he had been informed previously the American government intended no change but merely a renewal of the old treaty.

TREATY RECALLED

"Let us never forget," he said, "that there is another and very relevant treaty still in force, namely the Bryan-Spring-Rice conciliation treaty. My own impression is that very probably in the future relations of the two countries conciliation machinery will be used more by both nations than the terms of any arbitration treaty which might be in existence.

"In any case," he continued, "before we could deal with this matter the much wider Kellogg proposal was made and it seemed to us—and I believe our view was shared in Washington—that it was desirable to conclude negotiations on that point and lay aside for the time being any resumption of negotiations with regard to the arbitration treaty."

GARLIC DIET, FLU 'CURE,' PUTS OFFICER IN HOSPITAL

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The prevalence of influenza has been a matter of deep concern to Patrolman Charles Day, of the Town Hall Police Station, and he has persistently sought medical advice from his brother officers.

None of the policemen at town hall is, strictly speaking, an authority on disease, yet all were quite certain that they knew the proper preventive. Garlic, they said, would knock the flu germ higher than Franklin's kite.

The patrolmen's prescription was given Officer Day just a week ago. Since then Day has been germandizing on garlic. Each night at roll call he has stood apart from the others, exhaling discreetly.

Last night as he was about to answer to his name, he collapsed. They rushed him to a hospital, fearing the flu.

A doctor, however, diagnosed the case as acute indigestion, superinduced by garlic.

YORK, Pa., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Declaring that it was not in the place of the medical profession to prosecute the practitioners of "witchcraft," but that this should be left in the hands of the state officials, the York County Medical Society at its meeting last night adopted a report of the committee on health and public instruction headed by Dr. C. W. Eisenhower, and advocated the inauguration of an educational program to bring to the attention of the public the futility and foolishness of the practice. The report grew out of the murder of Nelson D. Rehmeyer, recluse farmer, who was killed in an alleged attempt of three men to break a "spell."

OUTBREAK OF INFLUENZA GROWS MORE SERIOUS

Epidemic Conditions Again Threaten Danger To Thousands

Gain Strength to Resist the Germ by Taking

Father John's Medicine

Health authorities say that an epidemic of influenza is now threatened in many sections of the country.

Your greatest danger from the germ is when you are tired or run-down. # ICE PLANT MEN CONVICTED OF STORING BEER

Storage of high test beer in the plant of the Standard Ice Company, River avenue, resulted in the conviction Thursday in Federal Court of Albert Miller, secretary and treasurer, and George D. Lyons, general manager and chief engineer of the concern, for conspiring to violate the national prohibition law. Five employes of the company, Fred Grater, Joseph Katelan, Wilhelm Muschlik, Jerry Bowser and Pete Ostanec, were acquitted.

Government prohibition agents testified at the trial before Judge F. P. Schoonmaker of seizing contraband beer in the plant on three different occasions, one consignment of beer seized April 3 being stored as "malt pork." The defense contended that the men did not know it was illegal beer, believing it to be cereal beverages.

The government established that the names given of those storing the beer were fictitious. In the prosecution of the case the government was represented by Assistant United States Attorney Ralph H. Smith.

Pioneer Resident Of Beaver Dies

BEAVER, Pa., Dec. 21.—James T. Anderson, 75, president of the Cook-Anderson Company, died at his home on the Dutch Ridge road yesterday of pneumonia. He was born here and was a member of the First M. E. Church. He leaves a sister, Mrs. Minta Dosh, Gutherie Center, Ia.; two sons, Dosh and Mark K., and two daughters, Mrs. Walter Goettman and Mrs. Lee Williams, all of Beaver.

Wheeling Man Dies From Auto Injuries

WHEELING, W. Va., Dec. 21.—William L. Bradshaw, 62, prominent Wheeling attorney, died in a hospital here yesterday from injuries he received when struck by an automobile driven, it is alleged, by Ambrose A. McDonald, who is being held at the city jail.

Six Seconds For Safety

"The pedestrian always comes out second best in the auto crash—but the driver usually must foot the bill," says the Pittsburgh Motor Club in its safety campaign.

Through a medium of "wise cracks" that can be remembered in the important six seconds necessary to prevent an accident, the club hopes to keep the sorrow of death and injury from Pittsburgh homes this Christmas. Last year 25,775 persons were killed by automobiles in this country.

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern

A CHIC STYLE FOR THE MATRONLY WOMAN WITH SLENDER HIPS.

An attractive frock with surplice closing and distinctive lines. A curved insert at the right hip holds a flare flange which is creased in soft and effective folds, and forms a smart dip at the hem. The sleeve is lengthened with an empiecement, which together with the revers facing of the right front is of contrasting material. The pointed neck opening boasts of a tiny vestee. Satin crepe was used in this instance. One could have printed velvet or georgette with facings of crepe. Silk crepe with contrasting crepe for trimming is also suggested.

The pattern for this slenderizing model is cut in eight sizes: 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52 inches bust measure. It will require 4½ yards of 39-inch material for a 48-inch size. For the revers facing and facing on the sleeve extensions ⅞ yard 11 inches wide is required. The width of the skirt at the lower edge is 1½ yards.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 2c and 1c stamps). Make number, name, address, etc., plain. Send to "Pattern Department, The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

FATHER ROSSINI HAILS CAROL PROGRAM

The Rev. Carlos Rossini, composer and director of the Pittsburgh Polyphonic Choir, today adds his word of praise to the Hearst Christmas Carol program and All-Nation concert, which will be broadcast Christmas Eve from 11 o'clock until midnight. The Pittsburgh area will be covered by KDKA.

Commenting on the program as fine, "a delightful choice of some of the best Christmas music, with an appeal common to all who love the beautiful," Father Rossini also sang the praises of the men and women who will present the Christmas program over the air.

With the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, former president of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ presiding, Father Finn's Paulist choir and the Mediaevalists, will sing the carols. In Monday afternoon's Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, the words of the holiday melodies will be printed, so that just before Christmas is ushered in, hundreds of thousands of families can listen to the radio program and join in with the singers.

The program will go out over a country-wide radio net, so that for the first time, perhaps, America almost as a whole can sing together and make up the greatest chorus in history.

Father Rossini acclaimed both the spirit of the music and the all-nation singing.

EXTRA PLANES TO RUSH BELATED HOLIDAY MAIL

Extra United States mail planes are being held at Bettis Field, the southern terminal of the Pittsburgh-Cleveland division of the transcontinental airmail system, to carry belated Christmas cards and packages from the Pittsburgh district to all parts of the United States.

Postmaster Gosser has announced that it is now too late for mail to reach the Pacific coast and the far West in time to be delivered on Christmas if sent by train.

Airmail packages, letters and cards mailed at the Pittsburgh postoffice as late as tomorrow will be delivered in San Francisco, Los Angeles, Seattle, Portland or any of the Pacific coast cities in time for Christmas and if a special delivery stamp is affixed in addition to the airmail postage of 5 cents for the first ounce and 10 cents for each additional ounce, the mail will be delivered in time, even if it is not sent out of Pittsburgh before the Sunday afternoon plane.

Mail to the Southwest may be dispatched as late as Monday afternoon if a special delivery stamp is attached. Postmaster Gosser has pointed out that airmail facilitates the prompt delivery of Christmas packages and urges that Pittsburghers make extensive use of it.

Pilots on the Pittsburgh division have made several night trips from Cleveland to Pittsburgh recently with extra heavy loads of Christmas airmail.

Thirteenth Month Name Suggested

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(INS.)—A new month named "Sol," a new day every four years called "Leap Day," and an extra day every year without any name, might all come with the adoption of a 13-month calendar, backers of the proposal before the House Foreign Affairs Committee said today.

The new calendar is being promoted by George Eastman, Rochester, (N. Y.) kodak manufacturer, and many scientists, who declared that it would be a great aid to business and government in making each month of the same length.

The Foreign Affairs Committee is considering a resolution requesting the President to call an international conference on the question.

The present twenty-ninth of February, which comes with Leap Year would merely be called "Leap Day," and would not be considered as the part of any week.

Since 13 months of 28 days each uses up only 364 of the 365 days of each present year, the extra day would probably be put in between the thirteenth month and the first, it was said.

Head of Boys' School Dies in 9-Story Leap

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Dec. 21.—(AP)—Albert C. Swenson, associate headmaster of Huntington School for Boys, Boston, jumped to his death from a window in the ninth story of the New Industrial Trust Building here last night. He had been visiting his brother, Dr. Oscar E. Swenson, a dentist, with offices on the ninth floor.

Fireman Dies at Club Banquet

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Dec. 21.—In the midst of festivities last night at the Keystone Firemen's Club in which the burning of a mortgage on the clubhouse was one of the features, William McLaughlin, 65, president of the company, collapsed in the presence of 200 guests and died before he could be removed to the Uniontown Hospital. Heart failure was given as the cause.

Mr. McLaughlin had been toastmaster. The banquet had been served and a match had been applied to the mortgage when President McLaughlin became ill. He died in an automobile which was rushing him to the Uniontown Hospital.

McLaughlin was a charter member of the Keystone Fire Company, organized in 1897.

Dutch Fight Bootleg Alcohol, Lower Duty

THE HAGUE, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The second chamber has adopted a bill for reduction of the excise duty on spirits by 40 per cent. The chief argument for the big reduction was the tremendous increase in the traffic and manufacture of contraband alcohol since the excise was doubled in 1920.

Seek to Free Life-Term Woman

LANSING, Mich., Dec. 21.—(INS.)—Effort to save Etta Mae Miller, first woman to feel the scourge of Michigan's "habitual criminal" statute, from a life term in prison, today became simply a quest for legal loopholes which would reduce the number of Mrs. Miller's convictions to less than four.

Mrs. Miller has been convicted, on four occasions in five years, of possessing or selling a total of 11 pints of moonshine. If one of these four convictions can be discredited, either by pardon from the Governor or court action, Mrs. Miller will escape life sentence imposed on fourth-time felons in this state.

Writ Gives Slayer 30 Days More Life

MENDENHALL, Miss., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Doubt in a sheriff's mind over the legality of a writ of habeas corpus yesterday temporarily saved Robert V. Lewis from hanging for slaying Jesse Miley, his 71-year-old step-father.

The writ was granted yesterday by Chancellor T. Price Dale to prevent the execution on the ground that one of the jurors was not a resident of Simpson county, where the trial was held. The postponement means that Lewis will have at least 30 more days to live.

Bus Regulation Asked in Congress

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Chairman Parker, of the House Commerce Committee, has introduced a new bill to provide for joint regulation by states and the Federal government of motor vehicles operating as common carriers on public highways.

He explained in a statement that the outstanding difference between the measure and one now pending in Congress was with respect to the procurement by vehicle operators of certificates of public convenience and necessity.

Whalen Fires Squad But Promotes Rookie

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Grover Whalen's second full day as police commissioner of New York was marked by the wielding of the "big stick" and the rewarding of a rookie detective.

Within a few minutes after he had wiped out the locally famous "personal investigation squad" of the department, demoted its higher officers and scattered the entire personnel of 40 throughout the five boroughs, the commissioner promoted Arthur DeMarrais to first grade detective, as a result of his solution of a $100,000 jewel robbery.

Clown Sues Wife for Taking Fun Out of Him

CHICAGO, Dec. 21. — (AP.) — Charging that continual nagging had ruined his propensity for laugh making and thereby destroyed his means of earning a living, James Murphy, internationally known clown, filed suit for divorce against Josephine Murphy here today.

Murphy averred that married life had taken "all the fun out of me."

3 Drown When Auto Crashes in Blizzard

NUNICA, Mich., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Three Albion College students drowned yesterday when their automobile skidded and plunged into a drainage ditch three miles east of here. The accident occurred, it is believed, when the car went off the pavement in a blinding snowstorm and crashed through the railing of a bridge. The automobile overturned, imprisoning the occupants and holding them under about two feet of water.

Conductor Falls Dead After Train Kills 2

GREENSBURG, Ind., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Patrick J. Maloney, 64, Big Four Railroad conductor, of Cincinnati, fell dead of heart disease yesterday after running several blocks to a telephone to inform railroad officials of an accident in which two persons were killed.

Chester Chambers, 25, and his sister, Gladys Chambers, 17, were killed when Maloney's train struck their automobile at a crossing here.

Opportunity

We can use several high-grade young men to sell a fast-moving line of automobiles. We prefer men who are at the present time employed, but are ambitious to make the automobile business their future. We want young men with grit and a determination to win—high steppers and floaters need not apply. # News and Views of Things Going on in Realm of Amusements

DARLING OF VIENNA LEARNING ENGLISH TO PLAY HAMLET IN THE ORIGINAL

By GEORGE SEIBEL.

FAR from home, from the land where most of our Christmas customs originated, Alexander Moissi, the great German actor at the Pitt Theater, is cultivating the spirit of Christmas cheer under difficulties and discouragements. Mrs. Moissi has been very ill during this Pittsburgh visit, and other members of the company have had visitations of the prevalent flu. But the actors must carry on—ill or in health, and other folks' holidays mean more work for them. They must be cheerful always, but that is not hard for Moissi. His Italian ancestry, his Neapolese environment, have conferred on him a sunny and buoyant temperament. He is a man of small stature, as Garrick and Kean were, though by his tremendous vitality he seems to tower above the others. And he seems to radiate thought and emotion, as a sun radiates warmth and life.

"Homesick?" he echoed my question. "We do not have time to be homesick. Besides an actor hardly has a home. We are still strollers and wanderers, warming our hands at the firesides of strangers. But America has been so hospitable that it would be doubly difficult to be homesick here."

He speaks in the same rich, melodious, clear, harp-like German that he uses on the stage. But some day he will speak English. He is now engaged upon it with grammar and word-book and daily lessons.

"I do not find it so difficult," he said. "A professor of philology once told me that English is just a German dialect, which is a curious notion, but helps to encourage the learner. I have played French in Paris and Italian in Milan, so perhaps the next time I come to Pittsburgh I shall play Fedya in English."

He Likes Hamlet, His Great Role

"What is your favorite role?"

"Every part I assume has for me some particular spell. But I believe I like Hamlet best. That's only natural. It's the part every actor likes best. Then, too, Marquis Posa has a great attraction for me—the humanitarian philosophy of the noble Spaniard as Schiller painted him."

I told him Richard Mansfield's opinion of Marquis Posa. When Mansfield put on "Don Carlos," he played the young prince, instead of the "Marquis Posen," as he called him.

"Just the same I like those sentiments," exclaimed Herr Moissi. "Let the world keep its illusions—let people talk of liberty, freedom, equality—slowly the time will ripen when these things everywhere become realities, and the dreams of poets like Schiller are fulfilled. That will be the great Christmas, when all the people of the world will gather under the starry tree of heaven and receive the gifts of peace and plenty for which they have cried so long in vain."

Audiences Are Understanding

Herr Moissi was particularly gratified by the responsiveness of Pittsburgh audiences. Although his tongue must be strange to the vast majority, he has to answer seven or eight curtain calls after every performance, and his effective points are applauded in a way that shows they are understood.

He was told that many people listened to his diction as they listen to the violin of a Kreisler or to a great singer in some foreign language—drinking in the music and divining the sense.

"You do not know," he said, "that there was quite a war in Germany over my German? I was told that it wasn't German at all—and the critics raged from the Baltic to the Alps, denouncing me for it. But the audiences somehow preferred my voice to that of the critics, and today the critics insist that my German is the best German."

"And next you may have to teach us English," I ventured.

"Since Hamlet studied at Wittenberg," he said with a smile, "he may be permitted to have a slight accent. If he had only stayed longer in England the first time he was sent by his stepfather! Youth neglects its opportunities."

Herr Moissi has a sense of humor as well as a voice of gold.

PLAY WORLD FOLKS :-: OF :-: STAGE AND SCREEN

Mary Eaton and Oscar Shaw of the cast of "The Five O'Clock Girl," will act as hostess and host at a Christmas party for actors on the Alvin stage Christmas eve.

Richard Arlen broadcasting. The listener-in seems to find it difficult to keep awake. Both appear in a picturization of A. E. W. Mason's novel, "The Four Feathers."

Sally Arthur holds the high-kick record in the chorus of "Broadway Melody" film, six feet six inches. All of the candidates for the chorus had to take this test.

SALE OF I. O. O. F. LAND ASKED

MERCER, Pa., Dec. 21.—Judge J. A. McLaughry has set March 4 as return day on the petition of Richard Mirozora, of New Castle, who asks that the jurist order a sale of 150 acres of land in Pine township bought by the Odd Fellows lodge and members of Western Pennsylvania two years ago as part of the estate they own there, as a home for aged and infirm members of the order.

It is claimed in the petition that the title is held in the name of the "Three Links Association," of which the trustees are Louis White, C. W. Fenton, David Dale and John Fielding.

The petitioner asks that the land be sold and the money returned to the donators. The lodges are located from Allegheny county to Erie.

SENATE DEFERS WEST VOTE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The nomination of Roy A. West, of Chicago, as Secretary of Interior was presented to the Senate yesterday with a favorable report from its lands committee but consideration of the nomination will be deferred until after the holidays.

The final vote of the committee for West stood 9 to 4. Chairman Nye completed a poll today of members who were not present yesterday when the vote was 7 to 3, for the nominee. Of those absent at that time, Senators Smoot, Utah, and Dale, Vermont, Republicans, voted for West while Dill, Democrat Washington, opposed him.

Republican independents headed by Senator Norris, of Nebraska, and Senator Nye, are prepared to renew their fight against West when his nomination comes up in the Senate.

National Committee Asked to Inaugural

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—A full attendance of the Republican national committeemen and committeewomen at the inaugural of President-elect Hoover on March 4 was requested in a letter dispatched yesterday by Chairman Hubert Work.

He also called for a business meeting of the committee on the day following the inauguration.

MARY EATON HERE NEXT WEEK

Mary Eaton and Oscar Shaw will come to the Alvin in "The Five O'Clock Girl" for an engagement of five days, opening next Tuesday night. There will be three matinees—Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday. Mary Eaton plays a little shop girl who carries on a telephone romance with the young man of her dreams, who, in this instance, is Oscar Shaw. Rara avis among juveniles. Seats are now on sale.

That Pittsburgh theagoers are acquainted with the success of "The Trial of Mary Dugan," which A. H. Woods will present in the Pitt Monday night, is said to be evident in the demand for seats. Bayard Veiller is the author of the play. Mr. Woods is sending Ann Harding and the original cast here. Matinees will be given on Christmas Day, Thursday and Saturday.

There are 28 scenes in Ned Wayburn's "Gambols," coming to the Nixon next week, with a special Christmas matinee on Tuesday and the usual Saturday matinee. The dancing contingent includes Anne Pritchard, Shirley Richards, Olive McClure and the adagio dancers, Vereaux, Vernon and Randall. Then there is Wayburn's "Promenaders," a dancing unit of girls.

Florence Brady, Broadway songstress, will be among the featured numbers of the nine-act bill of Keith-Albee-Orpheum vaudeville opening in the Davis next Monday afternoon. The new policy in the Davis brings two-a-day shows back to Pittsburgh, with all seats reserved.

Christmas Tree Planned for Players

The entire cast of "The Five o'Clock Girl" will be guests Christmas eve at a Christmas party on the Alvin stage. There will be a big tree, a luncheon and gifts for everyone. There will be no performance of "The Five o'Clock Girl" that night, the opening being deferred until the following night, Tuesday, December 25. Everyone is co-operating to make this Christmas eve party as merry and as friendly as possible for the actors.

Ann Harding, who is to play in "The Trial of Mary Dugan" in the Pitt the same week, and the rest of the cast, will also join the party in the Alvin following the performance. Oscar Shaw, Mary Eaton, Ann Harding, and other principals will act as host and hostesses. Actors in other productions playing here next week are being invited to the party.

Kaufman, Eskimos Coming to Sanders'

Orchestras to appear at Sanders Inn, Freeport highway, Aspinwall, are Whitey Kaufman's for the Christmas dance and the Cliquot Club Eskimos for the New Year's Eve dance. Lew Caskey and his clowns will play for the Saturday night dance.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

THE LIGHT OF LOVE

By EMILY BURTON

BERYL HOOPER sat alone on an eastbound train absorbed in her own gloomy thoughts. She was returning to Pittsburgh after a visit to her old home town. She had anticipated that Christmas holiday at home for a long time and then she had come away with an ache in her heart.

It was quite evident that even her own family regarded her as a hopeless old maid. Why had she always been overlooked? Why had she never had any attention from men? Other girls no prettier, no better dressed, no better educated and no better disposed than she, were popular and seemingly happy. What was the matter with her anyhow?

A sudden terrific crash put an end to her unhappy thoughts. The local train upon which she was traveling had collided with a switch engine. No one was seriously hurt except one man. They said he was dying.

It was right before the derailed train was back on the tracks and moving again.

The delay caused Beryl to miss connection at the railway junction, where she had to change cars. When she stepped off at this deserted spot she found an ambulance waiting to carry the injured man to a nearby hospital. Mrs. Hughes, the trained nurse, who had attended him since the accident, accompanied him. Beryl was afraid to stay in the lonely little station at night, so she climbed into the ambulance with the patient. He was delirious and kept muttering and mumbling.

"He has been going on like that all day," cried the frantic nurse. "He keeps saying 'wedding, marriage, poor mother.'"

Two hours after they reached the hospital, where Beryl waited for daylight in a cheerless reception room, the nurse approached her.

"My patient is rational now, at least he looks rational," said Mrs. Hughes, "but he has a crazy proposition on his mind. He wants to be married before he dies and he says any decent woman will do. He doesn't care whether she is young or old, homely or pretty, large or small."

Beryl stared at the woman in amazement.

"It's this way," the nurse continued. "An erratic old uncle left his fortune to this man, Layton Burns, with the provision that this nephew be married before he is 30. In case he fails to comply with the requirement the money is to go to some outlandish research fund. Mr. Burns had two years more of grace, he thought, and was taking his time about finding a wife. But now his death will leave his mother without any means of support. He offers to settle one-third of the legacy upon the woman who marries him and that will leave the rest of the fortune for his mother."

"Well?" the words came in a whisper from Beryl's lips.

"I was wondering if you would consider marrying him?"

The girl sat in deep thought for a long minute. "Why not? It's probably my last and only chance to get the title of Mrs. and I could use the money—"

Before the early morning train for Pittsburgh arrived Beryl Hooper had become Mrs. Layton Burns. Because of the bandages which covered his face, Beryl had not even seen the man whose name she bore.

She put the papers entitling her to one-third of the Burns legacy into a safety deposit box and left it there. Some day she would claim this money; but for the present she would keep the affair to herself. Somehow she felt ashamed of it.

One day in the springtime she heard the girls in the office telling each other that a new sales-manager was coming to work that day. His name was Barnes, she was told—Mr. Barnes."

About noon the new salesmanager came in—a tall, gaunt man with a kindly face, a twinkle in his eyes and a slight limp.

Beryl was attracted to him at once. Before the week was over she found herself watching for his appearance. Before a month passed, she admitted to herself that she had a crush, a terrific crush on a man who had never glanced at her twice. She was disgusted with herself. But the madness continued.

Then one day he stopped and spoke to her.

"I wonder if you could take some dictation for me?" he said pleasantly.

She could.

"Then come into my office in about 15 minutes, Miss—er—"

"Poyner, Merle Poyner," she said.

"And what is your name?" she asked, smiling.

"Burns. Layton Burns," he replied, as he walked away.

Merle gasped. The room reeled about her. Layton Burns was dead. Could there have been two men of that name? Something told her that this was the man whom she had married. He had not died as the nurse said he would. Now he was here. He would hate her when he discovered that he was bound to her by cruel circumstances. She didn't want him to hate her. What should she do?

Finding no answer to that question, she did nothing. She continued to take Mr. Burns' dictation every day, and she lived for those hours with him.

But away from him she suffered torture. At last she could bear the strain no longer. She would take that marriage certificate to him and tell him the truth—ask him to release her, offer to release him.

Layton [illegible] did not seem greatly [illegible] over the revelation.

"I knew who you were before I came here to work," he told her. "In fact that is why I sought a position in the same office with you. After I got well, in spite of everybody's predictions to the contrary, I awoke to the fact that I was married. Naturally I wanted to know something about the woman who bore my name. All I knew was her name and address. So I came to Pittsburgh and at last succeeded in getting a job in the same company with—you—"

Merle stared at him in bewildered silence.

"I want you to know," he continued soberly, "that there has been one other love in my life. That ended five years ago. Since then I've never loved any other woman—until now."

"What are we going to do?" she asked shakily.

Layton Burns arose, walked around the desk and caught the trembling girl in his arms.

"We are going to my home, where you belong," he answered.

TAKE CHILDREN FROM ALLEGED PANHANDLER

Rescued from a home, described by Humane Agent A. C. Book as "the most deplorable" he had ever seen, six children ranging in age from 5 to 13, were placed in the Juvenile Court detention rooms today.

Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Zagnowski, of 820 Cabot way, South Side, were fined $100 each with the option of 30 days in the workhouse when arraigned in Morals Court this morning.

Zagnowski, according to Book, is a professional "panhandler." Book said he has not worked for 10 years, but preferred instead to beg money with the aid of his 12-year-old son, Stephen, dressed in rags. The money obtained in this way, according to Book, was spent by Zagnowski for moonshine.

The children and their parents lived in two rooms. The children are Anna, 13; Stephen, 12; Rosa, 10; Julia, 8; Ellen, 6, and Katie, 5.

DENNISON, O., Dec. 21.—Ben McAtee, in Dennison jail, alive after draining a cup of radiator alcohol at a filling station for a beverage, will face Mayor J. S. Hare.

Three Ex-Pupils To Compete With Stagg

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Three former pupils of Coach Amos Alonzo Stagg will bring teams to Stagg Field next fall in an attempt to teach their old teacher a football lesson.

Beloit College, coached by Campell Dickson; Indiana State College, coached by Wallie Marks, and Indiana University, coached by Pat Page, are on Chicago's home schedule. All are former Chicago stars and pupils of Stagg.

The 1929 schedule, which calls for games with Purdue, Princeton, Wisconsin, Illinois and the University of Washington, was announced today.

U. S. OFFICIAL, FUNDS GONE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Officials of the special Tanca-Arica boundary commission have disclosed that H. A. Grote, commissioner secretary and for a time its acting disbursing officer, has been missing for six weeks and that a shortage of nearly $5,000 in his accounts has been discovered.

The funds were contributed in equal parts by the governments of Chile and Peru to defray the expenses of the commission. Grote, an American who had resided in Panama, had been bonded by a company which is now searching for him.

Grote was in charge of the funds for a time while B. M. English, the disbursing officer, was in Mexico.

ROBBERS PICK WRONG TRAIN, THEN FAIL

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Detectives of the Pennsylvania Railroad, aided by Indiana officers, today were investigating a reported attempt to wreck and loot a fast Chicago-Louisville passenger train, supposedly carrying $4,000,000 for delivery to Louisville banks, as it sped south on the last 120 miles of the route from Indianapolis to Louisville, early yesterday.

The money was not on the train, having been delayed two hours at Chicago.

Jacob Sehr, engineer, said that, as the train was nearing Whiteland, Ind., about 40 minutes following departure from Indianapolis, C. M. Crooks, the fireman, saw right of way lights suddenly shift to red. Sehr stopped the train just as the engine was passing from the main line onto a switch.

Investigation of the switch revealed the lock had been broken.

Sheriff Charles E. Bowen, arrested a Negro suspect at Franklin, Ind., shortly after the case had been reported to his office, but did not reveal the evidence against the prisoner.

MAN HANGED IN MIDST OF RAGING SNOWSTORM

PARRY SOUND, Ont., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—John Burowski, convicted of the murder of Thomas Jackson, farmer, after a mail car holdup near here last August 18, was hanged in a snowstorm in the court yard of the district jail today.

A biting wind whirled snow down on the courtyard as Burowski walked up the steps to the platform, lighted by a single bulb. He objected momentarily to the black cap, but yielded to the hangman's insistence and murmured a short prayer as the trap was sprung.

Burowski and a companion, fleeing in a stolen automobile after the holdup, ran into a ditch. They hired Jackson to pull them out. As he and his son were doing so with a team of horses a posse hunting the robbers arrived on the scene. The robbers opened fire, killing Jackson. Burowski's companion escaped. Burowski had $1,715 when caught.

Quick Relief for COLDS since 1889

When epidemics strike

In small towns and large; when colds, grip, and influenza reach epidemic proportions; practically every druggist's stock of GROVE'S BROMO QUININE is cleaned out. The demand for GROVE'S reaches such volume that drug stores telegraph for air-mail shipments from our laboratories.

What a pity that many people need so drastic a warning as an epidemic to make them take care of their colds promptly and vigorously! How much saner and safer, to take GROVE'S BROMO QUININE whenever the onset of any cold is felt, in epidemic time or not.

Mildly laxative, the tiny tablets clean the digestive tract. The tonic benefits build up the body's defenses. Thus the cold is frequently nipped while it merely threatens. Or it is thrown off quickly.... There are two precautions: First, immediate treatment. Second, the right treatment. Therefore, emphasize GROVE'S, when asking for GROVE'S BROMO QUININE. Price 30c.

High School Students Renovate Toys for Santa Claus

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS PAINT TOYS FOR CITY'S DESERVING

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

By HAVEY J. BOYLE

MILTON D. CRANDALL, of dance marathon fame, and a Pittsburgh and Monessen, Pa., boy who made good in the big city, was in town yesterday. He stopped here on a hop from Chicago to New York, where on Christmas Day he is to open the weirdest, freakiest, and nuttiest stunt ever tried on a public that is accustomed to the unusual.

With his usual enthusiasm, Crandall went into the details of his new stunt which he has nicknamed the "Gabfest Championship of America or the Big Noun and Verb Rodeo." In short, Mr. Crandall is about to stage a talking contest, in which the man or woman who talks the longest will be presented a check for $1,000.

"IT IS purely scientific," said Mr. Crandall with a wink and with a magnificent gesture. "Is it true that woman talks longer than man? Let's find out. Let's make it scientific. That is what I purpose to do in New York. The fact that I am to charge $1, $2, and $3 in this course of this scientific test is a mere incidental. The big thing is to determine whether the cartoonists and the professional jokesters have been right or wrong all these years in attributing to women a power of speech greater than that of the so-called stronger sex."

There are, said the former marathon dance king, to be many sidelights in connection with the forthcoming gabfest. Prizes will be awarded the loudest speaker; the most erudite; the best from the standpoint of enunciation. Contestants will be allowed to whisper, read and sing. Prizes for the best in these various divisions will be awarded. Each contestant will have a chief second, as in the prize ring, whose duty will be to spray the throat with helpful mouth washes and to apply lozenges of various shapes and sizes. The contest will continue four days, day and night, with no intermission.

But all this, you say, is ridiculous. Maybe, answers Mr. Crandall, but how about Mr. Barnum and the rest of the boys. Was Mr. Barnum crazy?

AND to add some weight to his argument that his chin-marathon is going to be a big affair Mr. Crandall spreads before you a batch of clippings from New York newspapers that far exceed in length and number the attention given to his marathon dance which grossed in the way of newspaper publicity something like 1,000 columns.

As entries he has a variety of men and women. One is an Indian chief. Another is a noted hobo. Another is a lecturer. He has a mother-in-law in it. So far he has 20 entries. He expects to close with 25.

* * *

MR. CRANDALL says his tonsil endurance event is bound to click and he expects that after his New York venture there will spring up in many towns and hamlets word and noun derbies. After he started the marathon dance contests there weren't many cities or towns that escaped the plague. He looks for the same thing to happen after the adjective and adverb marathon is over in New York.

* * *

No one gets more fun out of his seemingly ridiculous ventures than Crandall. In outlining his plans to the writer he stood on top of a hotel bed, he climbed on top of a chair, he thundered on a dresser with his fist, and made at least four speeches. By all odds he is one of the most interesting gentlemen in the U. S. A.

DOORS SWING CLOSED ON FAMED OLD SALOON

Pittsburgh members of the I. B. F. (International Bar Flies) and A. O. B. S. (Amalgamated Order of Beer Shifters) today are mourning the passing of one of Pittsburgh's oldest drink emporiums. After quenching the thirst of leading business men, politicians and members of the Bar (legal) for more than six decades, the famous saloon at 545 Fourth avenue opened its swinging doors for the last time yesterday.

Exactly at 2 p. m. the last stein of frothy beer of post-Volsteadian alcoholic percentage was drawn from the spigot and a minute and a half later it was gulped down by the last thirsty customer.

A few minutes before this solemn ceremonial, Annie, the cook, who catered to the gastronic whims and fancies of the establishment's clientele for 25 years, had put the last order of pigsknuckles and sauerkraut on a platter. She seasoned the delectable dish with a tear, for cooking pigsknuckles and sauerkraut, sour meat, wiener schnitzel and bratwurst and kartoffel salat for more than a quarter of a century for discriminating gourmets had been one of life's greatest delights for Annie.

The law sounded the death-knell of the saloon last Tuesday when dry raiders invaded the place and confiscated a quantity of beverages of more than the legal alcoholic content. The raid was made but a few days after the owner had received notice to vacate the premises, now the property of Allegheny county. The raiders swooped down upon the place at the very time when its owner was making preparations to comply with the vacating order. The building in which the saloon is located is one of several in the block which has been bought by the county for its new office building.

MORGUE TO TAKE PLACE

At the very spot where for more than half a century the city's leading businessmen, solons and politicians were wont to imbibe the gifts of Bacchus, the quarters of the new county morgue will be located. An air that was formerly fragrant with rich odors from sparkling Burgundy, Champagne, Bordeaux and Johnny Walker, will, in the near future, be saturated with the stench from embalming fluids.

Before and even after prohibition days, the saloon was a favorite meeting place for the city's business, political and legal elite. They lunched there on pigsknuckles and sauerkraut and steins of cold beer while discussing politics or the latest sensational court case.

The establishment's cuisine enjoyed city and county-wide renown. Its German culinary creations and delectable products of Bacchus were excelled by few other places in town.

An 84-year-old customer who had imbibed his refreshments at the place for more than 50 years wept when he visited there for the last time yesterday.

"It was like home to me," he wailed. "There was no place in town where the beer was so good and where as fine a bunch of good fellows gathered."

Hospital Charity Ball to Be Planned

The committee in charge of the annual charity ball for the benefit of the Belvedere General Hospital will meet tonight in the Italian Club, Center and Millvale avenues. Dr. Julia S. Guarino, general chairman, will preside.

Holds Bonds

HENRY J. LENNON

Henry J. Lennon was for ten years a special agent, United States Department of Justice, in charge of investigation of activities of anarchists and communists in western Pennsylvania. For five years he has been bond clerk to the District Attorney. On leave of absence, in the investigation of the past of W. L. King, vice investigator, he was "Harry Steel."

Falls Into Coal Hole, Asks $25,000

Injured by falling through a coal hole in the sidewalk at Penn and Collins avenue, August 3 last, Harry Gibbs has brought suit against Nettie M. Frauenheim for $25,000 damages for concussion of the brain and a fractured rib. Gibbs says that when he stepped on the lid covering the hole it gave way, precipitating him into the cellar. He claims the owner of the property was negligent. His counsel is Francis A. Wolf.

FATHER LOSES BABY, WINS DIVORCE

While William R. Matthews of "The Oaks," Perrysville, lost the habeas corpus proceedings instituted in Common Pleas Court several months ago by his wife, Dorothy M. Matthews, for possession of their baby, Matthews has just won a suit for divorce.

He claims his wife was jealous of him and on one occasion held a gun against him and threatened to shoot him, while on another she hurled a small reading lamp at him and cut his forehead and broke his glasses. When the couple were married, May 7, 1927, Mrs. Matthews was a telephone operator. She accused Matthews of going out with other women, which Matthews denied. He averred that Mrs. Matthews threatened to stab him with a file.

Mrs. Matthews, since the separation, has been living with her parents in Perrysville road, about one and a half miles from her husband's place of residence.

TRADERS NAME OFFICERS

The Washington Heights Board of Trade, at a meeting held in the Carnegie Library, Grandview avenue and Kearsarge street, Mt. Washington, elected the following officers to serve for the coming year: President, Henry Fox, re-elected; first vice president, R. D. Hayden, re-elected; second vice president, Mrs. Margaret Brophy; third vice president, Mrs. Anna K. Diller; secretary, J. Rattigan, re-elected, and treasurer, I. H. Steele. The 12 directors elected to the board are John Eichenmiller, Louis Lersch, T. R. Brophy, Mrs. McVay, M. W. Berger, W. H. Schuck, Miss Ella McKenna, George Zeigler, Joseph Laufer, E. H. Altenbaugh, Mrs. Della Hartner and W. J. Snyder.

EARNED OWN LIVELIHOOD WIFE SAYS, ASKS DIVORCE

Because her husband was not willing to go out and earn a living, Marie Hennigan, 619 Seagirt street, has asked Judge Joseph M. Swearingen to divorce her from Frank J. Hennigan.

Theirs was a Wellsburg, W. Va., wedding. In less than two years after the marriage in 1922, Mrs. Hennigan left him, according to her testimony. She continued to work. Mrs Hennigan said that Mr. Hennigan's mother really kept him, for after their marriage the Hennigans lived at the mother-in-law's home.

Mrs. Hennigan said she could not stand the way she had to live with her husband. Anyhow she said he had told her to leave and that Hennigan was not willing to go out and earn a living.

LIFE IN PERIL, WIFE SAYS

Catherine E. Petre, Library, filed a bill of particulars in Common Pleas Court, alleging that her husband threatened to kill her, choked her and otherwise mistreated her, in giving reasons for wanting a divorce from Samuel T. Petre. Triplets were born to this couple, but all of them died within a year, so it was stated. He also threatened to throw a hatchet at her, so she claims. They were married in 1915.

Club Entertained By Girl Reserves

The Girl Reserves of Avalon High School entertained 25 members of the Younger Girls' Club of the Woods Run Settlement, Petrosky street, yesterday with a party at the house. Fifty of the Older Girls' Club will be guests of the Girls' Friendly Society of Trinity Cathedral at the parish house Saturday, December 29.

Boy Runs Into Auto and Leg Is Broken

Raymond Stanton, 7, of 1416 Hill avenue, Wilkinsburg, suffered a fracture of the leg when he ran into an automobile at Cole street and Penn avenue, Wilkinsburg, last night, according to police. George P. Roley, of Potter-McCune Company, posted bond for a hearing.

Police Find Old Church Used As Still

Prohibition agents reported yesterday that they had raided a building at 821 South Tyson street, Homewood, which was once a church. They arrested James Porico, 35, and seized five gallons of alleged whisky.

CLASS IS HOST TO ALUMNI

Scores of alumni of Avalon High School assembled last night for the annual homecoming and reception tendered to graduates of former years by the present senior class in the school auditorium. Several came from distant points to be present. Following basketball games between teams representing the alumni and the undergraduates, a program of speechmaking and entertainment was given. The annual senior dance will be held tonight.

Students Offer Blood To Truck Gas Victims

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—More than a score of Georgetown University medical students have offered their blood for transfusions to save the lives of two motor truck operators who were overcome by fumes from their machine's engine on a highway near Washington.

The two truckmen, with their machine laden with Christmas trees, were found unconscious in the cab of the truck by a policeman at Falls Church, Va., near here. He took them to the police station in the belief they were intoxicated, and they remained in a cell for an hour and a half before a physician discovered their real condition.

TRADE BODIES PROTEST CAR SERVICE

The Mt. Washington and the West End Board of Trades have joined hands charging that patrons of their communities have been neglected by the Pittsburgh Railways Company.

A committee of both organizations will be appointed shortly and appear before the City Council and urge the railways company to run No. 33 from Mt. Washington to the city instead of McGann's corner, West End. This car formerly ran to the heart of the downtown district.

The Mt. Washington patrons, it is charged, are compelled to alight at McGann's corner and dodge traffic both ways, as the car stop is in the middle of the street. They are forced, it is alleged, to stand out in the cold and rain and wait for a Carnegie or a Crafton car, and when these cars make their appearance they are crowded to the doors.

If the former service is restored to the line, they say, it will be possible to reach the city without interference or delay.

LEG FRACTURED, ASKS $35,000

Walter Svetlich, 11, East street, through his father, Matthew Svetlich, has brought suit against Edward Milbert, West View, for $35,000 damages for a broken right leg and other hurts sustained when the boy was struck by the Milbert car. The accident happened in East street, December 4, 1926, according to the bill of particulars filed by Arnold M. Replogle, representing the father. It is averred that Milbert kept no lookout, ran at high speed and was negligent in the operation of the car.

Burial Assured Domestic in Man's Will

Comfortable maintenance for life and a suitable burial at death, is assured Elizabeth Cain, long a domestic in the home of William Wilson McNall, Crafton, in his will probated today. These expenses are to be charged against his Findley township farm, which is given to his four daughters, Sarah Blanche McNall, Mrs. Olivetta Proudfit, Mrs. Maude Dunseith and Mrs. Margaret Morgan.

The widow is given $5,000 and his daughters sums ranging from $3,000 to $4,000. Mrs. McNall and Mrs. Morgan are executors.

FALLS IN DITCH, ASKS $25,000

Suit for $25,000 has been brought by Fred Lohman against George Vang and George H. Lanz, receivers for the Thomas Cronin Company for injuries received when he fell into a ditch in Basil way, Mt. Washington, November 1. It is averred by Lohman that no light was maintained on the ditch or sewer at Basil way and Oneida, where the accident occurred, doing the plaintiff bodily injury.

Rankin Woman Hit By Truck Asks $10,000

For internal injuries received in an automobile collision at Hawkins and Fourth street, Rankin, September 11, last, Mrs. Helen Wibner, who suffered many bruises, and her husband, A. J. Wibner, have brought suit against the Cudahy Packing Company for $10,000 damages. Attorney Sigmund Arnold who brought the action on behalf of his clients, sets forth that the truck of the packing company was running on the wrong side of the street, when the accident occurred and therefore the driver was negligent.

POST LAUNCHES DRIVE FOR HOME

Sentiment favorable to providing a permanent home for North Boroughs Post 118, American Legion, is crystallizing in the district, according to post officers. Definite steps toward that end are in prospect, they say.

A suggestion for purchase, through public subscription in the North Boroughs, of a house that could be remodeled into suitable quarters has met with approval.

The plan was broached at a recent get-together meeting of former service men in Bellevue borough hall by Councilman Charles A. Saints, of Bellevue. He proposed that officials and leading citizens of the boroughs interest themselves in the project. Burgess William J. Longmore of Bellevue, and Burgess Grant Ritchie of Avalon, promised co-operation in any move the veterans might make toward acquiring permanent quarters.

A meeting of the executive committee is scheduled for December 31, when the proposal will be discussed.

At present the post meets in the Bellevue borough hall. A recent canvass showed about 700 ex-service men in the North Boroughs, only 107 of whom are affiliated with the post. A drive for new members now on would be greatly stimulated, officers believe, if a post home was assured.

At one time the remodeling of the old Balph homestead in the Bayne Memorial Park, Bellevue, was proposed as post quarters. Terms of the grant of the property to the borough, however, prevented this.

Former Missionary Addresses Society

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Ben Avon Presbyterian Church held a Christmas service yesterday in the home of Mrs. P. A. McKee, 708 Church avenue. Mrs. Gaius Slosser, a returned missionary from Japan, recounted her experiences in the Orient. Mrs. Chalres C. Chalfant conducted devotionals. There was carol singing and solos by Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. Samuel Patterson and Mrs. J. H. Hileman were hostesses.

LAST STEIN CROSSES OLD-TIME BAR

THE LAST DRINK

This customer yesterday imbibed the last stein of frothy beer at the old bar in the saloon at 545 Fourth avenue, raided by dry agents Tuesday. The bar catered to businessmen, politicians and lawyers for more than 60 years.

OLD COOK LOSES JOB

Annie, the cook, has served her last order of pigsknuckles and sauerkraut after superintending the establishment's cuisine for more than a quarter of a century. She and other old employes are made jobless by the closing of the place.

PASSING OF BOBS SPELLS LEAN PURSE FOR BARBERS

Passing of the bobbed hair fad has spelled lean Christmas pocketbooks for North Borough barbers, they lament.

The long line of girls and women formerly seen trekking to beauty shops has all but ceased, it is said. Last summer nearly all girls were wearing boyish or "windblown" bobs, assert the tonsorialists.

Now girls of high school age and over are allowing their tresses to grow. Only the grade school tots continue to have their locks scissored and some of them are reported following the style set by big sisters.

Mackrell Makes 2-Word Speech At Yule Party

The ultimate in a speech by a public official has been delivered.

"Merry Christmas!"

This was the oration of Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell, lately become a barrister, when called upon yesterday to address the fifth annual pre-Christmas celebration in his office. More than 150 persons attended the party, including judges, prominent lawyers, employes and friends. The affair, which was inaugurated by Mr. Mackrell when he assumed office in his first term, began at the official closing hour and a buffet lunch was served. The party centered about an elaborately decorated tree, with countryside accessories and electric railway, which have been features of such celebration.

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.

There is some nuts got a habit here in New York. I doubt if it has reached your town, for most of your states have asylums. It's to go bareheaded on the street. Now the nut has worn something on his head, ever since his mother tied a hood under his chin, but he has never attracted any attention, so he lets it rain down his neck to show people that he bathes.

If your head hasn't got enough in it to carry a hat, why, all the sunshine on it in the world won't do it any good. We have a scene in our show where another comedian and myself come out with dress suits and barefooted. No difference from being bareheaded on the street, only we get paid for attracting attention and being funny.

Let women leave off something, they do it much better than men. Every time a woman leaves off something she looks better, but every time a man leaves off something he looks worse.

WILL.

TRIALS HALTED IN U. S. COURT UNTIL FEB. 4

Jury trials in the United States Court were discontinued Thursday afternoon until the special four-week session of the November term, to start February 4. Announcement was made that only motions would be heard each morning next week, with Judge R. M. Gibson on the bench.

Since the beginning of the November term November 13, fines aggregating $43,000 have been paid by defendants, most of whom were violators of the national prohibition law entering pleas of guilty.

During the last two weeks, as shown by the records in the office of United States Attorney John D. Meyer, 215 pleas of guilty were entered. There were 26 trials which resulted in conviction of defendants in 15 cases and acquittal of defendants in eight suits. Three cases terminated by directed verdicts by the court and nine suits were nolle prossed.

Fines aggregating $28,940 were collected and jail and penitentiary sentences totaling 15 years, 11 months and 22 days were imposed.

Court Delays Erie Court House Annex

ERIE, Pa., Dec. 21.—Delay in the construction of Erie county's $500,000 annex to the Court House was seen today with a written opinion handed down by Judge Uriah P. Rossiter disapproving the contract specifying Onondaga litholite for the exterior finish.

It is stated a deadlock will result on the board of county commissioners on any proposal to alter the original award. Commissioners Joseph F. Rogan and Allan MacLean both having expressed a decided preference for litholite.

Michael Decides to Take a Yacht Trip to Africa To Forget Madge

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Madge Sayre, pretty and young, craves luxuries of life. She meets handsome Carroll Dudley, artist and aviator and "man about town," at a party given by Frances Storrs, a friend. Frances warns Madge against Dudley's professions of love. She dines in his luxurious studio apartment, takes midnight air rides in his plane and accepts his suggestion to pose for him in the nude. After professing his love for her, which she accepts, it develops that he is already married. She is struck by the automobile of Michael Winchester, who falls in love with her. They are married. The event is one of startling magnificence. Madge had previously described to Michael her affair with Dudley. Later a barrier of misunderstanding which neither is able to surmount arises. Michael receives a cable to go to his sister in England. He fails to ask Madge to accompany him. Shortly after in a darkened theater a man takes the seat next to her. "Ecstacy! Ecstacy!" he whispers. It is Dudley's pet name for her. Refusing to be jilted by her coldness, Dudley forces her to ride with him through the park. An agreement is reached based solely on "friendship." She invites him to dinner. She deserts Michael and goes to Carroll. Michael is heartbroken when he discovers Madge has left him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

MICHAEL looked at him and then nodded. "I suppose you're right," he began slowly, "I don't think it will make any difference where I go, or what I do, though, for wherever I go I shall see her. I shall always be afraid I will meet her—and that fellow. I hope I don't. I would not answer for what these hands would do to Dudley. But you're right, Padre. No good my staying here brooding."

And suddenly he picked up the telephone to call a New York number.

"I'm getting the captain of my yacht," he explained to the Padre. "I gave him a week off. Ah, here he is! That you, Capt. Shaw?" And Dr. Borden noticed that Michael injected a note of false gaiety into his voice. "How soon can we be ready for sea? Now don't give me all those details, but give me speed. What? Repairs? Listen Captain—repairs or no repairs, I am sailing for Africa for some big game shooting a week from today. Put on as many men as you like, but you be ready for sea in a week—and it's up to you to get it done!"

CHAPTER XIX.

MONDAY was a quiet day for Madge. Celeste was busy dressmaking for a favorite doll and Madge was called in as the expert modiste from New York.

The next day it was Martha who suggested that they should drive into town and have tea at the hotel.

"I have to do a little shopping," she explained, "and Henry wants me to bring out a package from the hardware store."

"Oh, goody!" laughed Celeste. "I can spend my dollar!"

Martha drove them in to town, parking the car on the old-fashioned Main street.

"Will you stroll about, dear, and amuse yourself while I order the groceries?" Martha asked Madge. "Keep Celeste with you if you will."

"I am going to give you a soda, Madge, out of my dollar," Celeste hospitably suggested.

"You do it next time, darling," Madge smiled down on the child, and together they made their way to the soda fountain in a drug store.

Returning, they drove in silence for nearly a mile, apparently intent on the road. Then, as they came down the hill that led to the farm, she turned for an instant to Madge.

"I've only known you for a little time, Madge," she said sincerely. "But I've never known anyone I liked better on so short an acquaintance. If ever you need a friend, dear, you could call on me."

There were tears in Madge's eyes as she fought down a desire to confide everything in the sweet-faced woman at her side, and she replied huskily:

"Thank you, Martha."

She decided that she would have to keep everything to herself until she and Carroll were married.

Suddenly she realized that she was unhappy—that it would have been a relief to confide in Martha. How could it be that she was not jealous? Had she not given up everything to obtain her heart's desire, and was not Carroll now her very own?

But this was absurd! She was getting moody—just because so many things had happened in such a few months. She must not be so introspective, but must take all the joy in life as it came.

Another car was approaching them with an apple-cheeked girl at the wheel. Martha pulled in to the edge of the narrow country road and called out gayly:

"Want the whole road, Ethel? How are things?"

"Who is that?" Madge asked idly, after the two cars had passed.

"A sweet girl, but a silly one," was Martha's answer. "She is married to a farmer hereabouts who is a bit older than she is, but he is a genuine good sort, and he worships the ground she walks on. George Wentworth, that's the husband, is perhaps a bit stolid and quiet, but he makes a good living, and everything he does is for Ethel."

"What's she foolish about?" Madge queried.

"Oh, he's a romantic donkey—and some time ago, a traveling salesman passed at night in his car. A worthless young scamp by the name of Eddie Harwood—just a nothing, but flashily dressed. George put him up for the night, and that's how it started. Ethel thinks he looks like a moving-picture actor. I wouldn't be a bit surprised, as she was headed towards town, if she wasn't going in to have dinner with him. I've warned her, but what can one do."

"But if she loves this man, Eddie?" Madge found herself arguing.

"My dear, she thought she loved George when she married him a year ago. Her trouble is that she confuses love with infatuation."

The arrival at the farm stopped further conversation, and after supper was over, Madge was called to the telephone.

"Is that you, Ecstasy?" Carroll was asking over the long-distance wire.

"How are you, darling. Your voice sounds funny," Madge answered affectionately, little knowing that Carroll had been drinking.

"It's a rotten connection," he explained it. "I called you up with some news."

"What is it?" she asked, a little anxiously.

"Something you've never heard before, Delight! Just to tell you that I adore you! Adore you so much, little ice-maiden, that I can hardly wait until the week-end. You're not going back on your promise, are you?"

"We'll talk about that on Saturday," she tried to evade the issue.

"We'll talk about it now," he insisted. "You wouldn't break your word? Wouldn't be a nasty old Indian giver, would you?"

"What a romantic thing to do," she laughed at him, "to talk about such a thing over the telephone."

"Well, the time passes very slowly away from you, beloved," he went on, and for a full five minutes he raved over Madge's beauty.

"By the way," Madge told him, "I inquired for letters today at the village postoffice, and there was nothing for you."

"That's fine!" he answered carelessly. "I don't expect anything but bills, and I told Hardy to enclose all in one envelope and send them along. But it's about you I want to talk, beloved," and he continued to make love to her over the wire.

But when at length he hung up, he was smiling cynically. He took another drink, and then from sheer boredom he had his hotel operator call New York, as he wished to talk to Oswald Stewart.

"You must be drunk to phone from Pittsburgh with nothing to say," the older man told him.

"Nothing to say!" Carroll laughed. "Listen, you old stiff! I called you to tell you that you're going to lose that five hundred bet this very next week-end! Laugh that off, Oswald! This is the boy who gets results—results, Oswald!"

CHAPTER XX.

THE next morning it was raining. Madge sat on the porch reading a New York paper for which Henry Ferris subscribed. It was one of those tabloids which specialized in startling news and frequently recorded pictorially the doings of the so-called "Four Hundred."

Madge paused as she saw a magnificent sea-going yacht. The caption announced that Michael Winchester, the owner, had issued orders for the yacht to be made ready for a long voyage as he was about to undertake a big game expedition in Africa.

The paper dropped from Madge's hand. Of course she knew that by this time Michael had read her note informing him of what she had done. So this was his reaction. She wondered if he were deeply hurt; but if so, it would only be his pride that would be wounded. He had never cared for her, she assured herself passionately, or he would never have gone to Europe with June Wilson.

And then, as though guided by fate, Madge picked up the paper and idly turned a page, intrigued by the bold headline:

PEERESS NAMES N. Y. DEB!

The name of June Wilson stood out from the news story of the scandal. It appeared that the Earl of Middlesex had left his wife, and was traveling openly with June Wilson—had left London for the Norwegian Fjords.

Then — why, then! — Michael's meeting with June had been only accidental. Obviously June had been on her way to join Lord Middlesex'

And if Michael were innocent—as was so evidently the case—then . . . But Madge could not think clearly. She tried to console herself by reflecting that it was all written by the hand of Fate. It had to be, and she had been nothing but a pawn on the chessboard of life. She began to wonder if it had not been largely her unjust suspicions as to Michael and June that had caused her to run away with Carroll. Still, it was no good regretting. She had done this thing. She had lost her father. She had lost Michael. She had lost everything but the man she loved. She still had Carroll . . . Her Carroll . . . Her man.

The rain stopped and the sun caused everything to sparkle. Wanting something to do, she borrowed the car from Martha and drove the little distance, with only Tam beside her, to the village postoffice.

"Any letters for Dudley?" she asked the old postmaster.

He handed her two, and to her joy she noticed in Carroll's writing one addressed to herself.

Getting back into the car, she drove a little distance away, where she parked by the side of the road under the shade of a big maple tree.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Debbies and School Set Like to See Christmas Stars Wink Out

WHEN one was very, very small, one scurried to bed Christmas eve right after dinner without any coaxing so that Santa Claus would have plenty of time to unpack and arrange all one's gifts. But when one is grown up, one seldom goes to bed until late Christmas morning. The younger set, composed of debutantes and the school and college group and their friends, like nothing better than dancing until the stars of Christmas morning haved paled away one by one.

It's no wonder then, is it, that Christmas eve is always "taken" long, long before it arrives? This Christmas eve, you know, Mr. Charles Frederick Holdships will give a dance in the Pittsburgh Club for their daughter, Margaret Holdship. At this ball, the only big social event planned for Christmas eve, Margaret will make her bow to the social world. She was to have been presented at a tea in the fall, don't you remember, which was canceled because of a death of a relative.

ON Christmas Day even those champion dinner guests, the debutantes, usually dine at home. But there will be several dinners preceding the Holdship ball, I understand.

Mrs. James H. Childs, of Albemarle street, will entertain with a dinner in her home that evening in honor of Virginia Willock, debutante daughter of the Frank Scott Willocks, of Sewickley. Later the guests will go to the dance.

IF IT were any other season but this one, which has been full of surprises, I would say with conviction that the last bud to make her bow this year will be Marian Stone, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Stephen Stone, of Forbes street. As it is, I'm going to say that as far as I know, she'll be the last debutante to be presented.

Her parents will present her to their friends at a dance Friday evening, December 28, in the University Club. The debutante will receive with her father and mother.

Mrs. Sydney A. Stewart, daughter of the Stones, and Mr. Stewart will be at the dance, of course, as will Mr. and Mrs. Granville Worrall, II, of Ardmore, Pa., who will be their house guests that week-end.

* * *

MOST of us like snow at Christmas time, though when January comes, Florida seems most alluring. Mrs. Henry Chalfant and her family will not have a northern Christmas like most of their set. They sailed yesterday for Bermuda and will return to New York early in January, I hear.

ONE of the final debut parties of the season was held yesterday when Rhoda Gamble, daughter of the William K. Gambles, was introduced at a tea dance in the University Club. Gift bouquets decorated the ballroom, and the tea table in the main dining room was adorned with pink roses, stevia and heather. On the buffet table was a basket of calendula, pink roses and sweet peas.

Mr. and Mrs. Gamble and Rhoda received together, the debutante wearing a frock of white brocaded transparent velvet, made long in back and short in front, and she carried Pearson roses. Mrs. Gamble was gowned in dark blue transparent velvet trimmed with lace.

Rhoda is to be the guest of honor at a small dinner which Mr. and Mrs. James Edward Lewis, of Aylesboro avenue, will give the night of December 29 in the Longue Vue Country Club.

AN addition to the list of holiday parties is the one to be given the night of January 3 in the Allegheny Country Club by Mrs. Clinton L. Childs, of Sewickley. Mrs. Childs is entertaining for her daughters, Elizabeth and Laura.

A SMALL debutante affair held yesterday after the Gamble tea dance was the dinner dace given by Mr. and Mrs. Georg Singer Elberts in their home. Their guest of honor was Oliveretta Sutton. Roses and heather were used in the decorations.

I UNDERSTAND that the Walter G. Mortlands, who live at the Hotel Plaza in New York now, are coming back to Pittsburgh, their old home, for Christmas. They will return to New York for a few days before sailing, in January, for a cruise to South Africa.

* * *

PROCEEDS from the Christmas reunion party of the University of Pittsburgh alumnae to be held December 29 in Wooster Hall will be given to the Alumnae Educational Fund, which is used primarily as a loan fund for the benefit of undergraduate women at the university. Miss Lucille O'Donnell is in charge of the sale of candy, assisted by Miss Wilma Eckert, Miss Marguerite Craver, Miss Sally Stoughton, Miss Claire McKay Braun, Miss Eloise Bomhard, Miss Betty Moffett, Miss Margaret Ralston Wilson, Miss Gladys Donahue, Miss Mary Kammerer, Miss Laura Niebaum, Miss Ferne Wein, Miss Kathleen Parker, Miss Laura Schafer Felton, Miss Theresa Kahn, Miss Laura Fuchs, Miss Hilda Smith, Miss Lois Campbell and Miss Ann Braunstein. Miss Dorothy Sattley, in charge of prizes, has on her committee Miss Olivia Koehle, Miss Evelyn Mock Burki, Miss Prudence Trimble, Miss Margaret Sanders and Miss Margaret Miller.

MISS ELIZABETH CANNON, of Centennial avenue, Sewickley, who is a music student in the College of Fine Arts, Carnegie Institute of Technology, will entertain at bridge tomorrow afternoon in her home.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. SAM SHAFFER, of Overhill street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Betty Shaffer, to David M. Fineman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Baron Fineman, of DeVicter place, East End.

Outlook Alliance Gives Yule Lunch

ONE of the most artistic affairs, both as to appointments and entertainment, that the club season has seen was the Outlook Alliance's Christmas luncheon, which took place yesterday in the Congress of Clubs. The long tables were bright with flaming red tapers, tied with red tulle and silver ribbon, and at each place stood a tiny, red-and-silver wrapped begonia plant. Small boxes of candy were place favors also. The program was an enactment in pantomime of "Why the Chimes Rang," given with elaborate setting and tuming. On the rostrum stood a replica of an altar and to it the king brought his crown, the rich woman her jewels and others their diverse gifts, but the chimes rang only when a tiny child laid at the foot of the altar his gift which betokened sacrifice and unselfishness. The several participants were Mrs. M. W. St. John, Mrs. J. E. Crawshaw, Mrs. P. W. Dutton, Mrs. E. M. Steman, Mrs. Hettie Porch, Mrs. J. F. Torrence, Mrs. Raymond J. Metzger, Mrs. W. Z. Burns, Mrs. William George, Mrs. Munson Marshall, Mrs. E. B. Heyser and children from the Curtis Home, several of whom were guests during the afternoon. Mrs. C. R. Hall read the story with clear diction and pleasing expression and additional beauty was given the picture by the Madonna representation by Mrs. A. W. McCreery.

Appropriate music was played and a quartet composed of Mrs. William Wilson Colledge, Mrs. Mary Rhoades McBride, Mrs. Nessie Forbes Baird and Mrs. Thomas Hinds Gray sang carols to the accompaniments of Mrs. J. D. Boydston. Mrs. D. W. Haydock, who passed her eightieth milestone this week, was honor guest at the luncheon and was presented with a candle-decorated birthday cake.

NEVER has the Congress of Clubs presented a more beautiful appearance than it does at present in its gala holiday dress. Two lighted trees, one at either side of the doorsteps, and silver-tied holly wreaths on the windows beam a welcome from the outside of the clubhouse, while within the hallway the arch is outlined with arbor vita and flanked with smaller untrimmed trees. A star-shaped Florentine lamp inside a huge wreath hangs from the center of the archway. Varying sizes of holly wreaths have taken the place of the wall paintings in the lounge and are also placed over the doors, while the two old-fashioned marble mantels are banked with greenery and graduated candles, in seven-branch effect. Fluffy matine bows on the lights and large silver and red poinsettia on the columns and the sideboard are used in the front dining room, while in the Beck room at the back a particularly effective result has been achieved. Silver and holly are combined, the top of the buffet being entirely covered with holly, in the bed of which stand seven white tapers, electrically lighted, at their bases. A decorated tree stands in the auditorium which is done in holly, arbor vita, laurel and poinsettia. Mrs. James Mare and her co-workers of the house committee are responsible for the decorations throughout the house with the exception of the dining rooms, where Mrs. Milton Reno and the assistant manager, Miss Inez Bailey, have shown their originality.

ALLEGHENY COUNTY GIRL SCOUT troops are busy this week with Christmas activities directing their efforts toward doing special Christmas "good turns." Troop 16, of the South Hills, whose captain is Miss Elsie Davison, is arranging a program for the Children's Hospital where they will give a play, sing Christmas carols and present each child with a small gift from a grab bag.

In Wilkinsburg, where there are 15 troops, most of them have arranged to carol on Christmas Eve at the various institutions in the district. In the South Hills and in Avalon the Scouts will sing carols in the community.

Troop 93, Bradford Woods, Mrs. J. B. Kelly, captain, is dressing dolls for the Toy Mission and sending greeting cards to the shut-ins in the community. Many local troops are co-operating with their Christmas seal committees in selling seals. Other troops are filling stockings for poor children.

Troop 139, Miss Lillian Clyde, captain, and Troop 147, Mrs. Tirzah Bubb, captain, held a very successful Christmas bazar in Stowe Township Junior High School gymnasium. The presentation of a Girl Scout Christmas play, "A Pot of Red Geraniums," by Troop 147, was a feature. These troops are also making dolls and dogs to take to the sick children in local hospitals.

Most of Sunday's Color Gravure Section is devoted exclusively to pictures of a local nature. There is a full page of snaps at the Highland Park Zoo. Hunting scenes in the surrounding mountains, unusual views of the city, old churches, prominent Western Pennsylvanians—all in this review that has so quickly become Pittsburgh's most popular Pictorial Section.

"Declaration of Independence"

By John Trumbull

An extremely interesting painting by an interesting artist. John Trumbull, who served as an officer on Washington's staff, incorporated into this painting the portraits of forty-seven men who signed the Declaration of Independence. Its beauty is rivaled only by its historic importance.

"Along the Cheat River"

By A. F. King

A colorful, refreshing landscape painting, the scene being a few miles above Cheathaven, West Virginia. The Cheat river twists lazily through a beautiful valley. Mr. King's landscape is soft and has a delicate charm.

Your Sunday Dinner

By PRUDENCE PENNY

Stuffed Flank Steak.
Mashed Potatoes
Artichoke Fritters
Cucumber and Olive Salad.
Cherry Angel Cake.
Coffee.

STUFFED flank steak is rather a favorite of mine. Make a pocket in a thick flank steak to hold the dressing, or if the meat is thin, fold one-half over the other and skewer it together, after it has been filled.

This is my usual dressing recipe: I crumble a pint of bread, soften it with cold water and drain well after it is moist throughout. Then I season the crumbs with salt and pepper, onion salt and celery salt, a little poultry dressing and two tablespoons of drippings. Pack the dressing closely into the meat, pat it into shape and bake for one hour in a covered roaster, or for an hour and a quarter in an open pan.

If your roasting pan doesn't boast of a top then baste the meat several times. Put a few slices of bacon on top of the meat just about 10 minutes before serving, to improve the flavor.

We haven't had artichokes all season, though they are prime favorites in the market just now. For artichoke fritters, take the hearts of fresh boiled artichokes, cut them into round slices about three-quarters of an inch thick, dip them into frying batter and fry them in deep fat. Serve hot with a sprinkling of salt. Garnish with lemons cut into quarters.

Now we're up to the salad. Peel and dice two nice-sized cucumbers and three hard-boiled eggs, reserving the ends of the eggs for garnishing. Add a cup of sliced stuffed olives and a half cup of broken pecan nutmeats.

Place crisp lettuce leaves on each individual salad plate—quickly mix the salad with about three tablespoons of French dressing, then pile it on the lettuce leaves; decorate each plate with the ends of the eggs, a few whole stuffed olives, and a few bands of pimentoes, and you'll have a salad as good to look at as it is to eat.

ORANGE FILLING—One cup sugar, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup water, 1 teaspoon Blue Ribbon malt extract (hop flavored), 2 eggs, ¾ cup orange juice. Mix the dry ingredients together. Add the water. Cook 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add the slightly beaten egg yolks. Cook one minute. Add the Blue Ribbon malt extract, hop flavored, and the orange juice. Cook until thick, stirring constantly. Cool. Use in pies, cakes and cream puffs.

CREAM PUFFS

HERE'S a good recipe for Cream Puffs—and Cream Puffs are a most delightful way of winding up a good dinner!

Put into a saucepan a half cup of butter and a cup of boiling water and put them on the fire. As soon as the boiling point is reached, add a cup of flour and stir vigorously. As soon as it is thoroughly mixed, remove from the fire and add unbeaten eggs, one at a time, until you have added four. Remember to beat thoroughly after each egg is added, until well mixed.

Now drop by spoonfuls on a buttered sheet, about one and a half inches apart. Shape the puffs with the handle of the spoon, making them as nearly circular as possible, piling each higher in the center than on the sides.

Bake for 30 minutes in a moderate oven. If you are in any doubt as to whether or not your puffs are done, remove from the oven. If it doesn't fall, the puffs are done; if it does fall, let the rest of them bake a little bit longer. That's a sure test! When they are cool, split them and fill them with whipped cream.

Or, if you want the dainty French doughnuts that look so enticing in the baker's window, mix the dough exactly as I have described, but instead of dropping it on a buttered pan, drop it, by spoonfuls, into quite hot deep fat and let cook until brown. Then all they need is the fluting done with the pastry iron!

WHEN I was a little girl, I was told that fish was brain food; and so I ate every speck of fish that was given to me, confident that the more of it I ate, the smarter I would automatically become!

It never dawned on me that fish had to go through the somewhat prosaic process of being digested, like any other food—since it was brain food, I reasoned, it wended its way straight up to the brain, and there did its work.

It was some time later that I discovered that fish was brain food because it is rich in mineral salts. Lobsters are rich in iodin; oysters, too, are heavy in iodin, and have the added advantage of being easily digested. Iodin, you know, has been proven to be a preventive of goitre.

In fact, fish is used in many countries to the entire exclusion of other protein food. We eat a lot of fish in this country, and authorities predict that in the days to come it will have a more and more extended use.

Tuna fish lends itself particularly to an entree; try this tuna fish pie: Four tablespoons butter, 1 slice onion, 2 tablespoons flour, ¾ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 1¾ cups water, 2 bullion cubes, ½ cup milk, 1 can tuna fish, 1 cup celery, cut fine; 1 cup diced potato, 3 hard cooked eggs.

Put the butter and onion in saucepan and cook two minutes. Add flour, salt, pepper, water and bouillion cubes. Stir until the sauce boils and add the milk. Put into a buttered casserole, alternating with tuna fish, celery, potato and hard cooked eggs, sliced. Cover with tiny, uncooked baking powder biscuits and bake in a hot oven for from 15 to 20 minutes.

Creamed salmon is delicious, too. Scald one cup of milk with a bay leaf, a sprig of parsley and a half slice of onion. Remove the parsley and onion and make a white sauce of the milk, two tablespoons of butter, two tablespoons of flour, half teaspoon of salt and pepper to taste. Now add one and three-fourths cups flaked salmon and serve on toast, if you prefer. This recipe will yield

CHRISTMAS COOKIES—Beat a half cup of butter to a cream, then add gradually one cup of sugar and two well beaten eggs, three squares of melted chocolate, one cup of chopped raisins. Sift together one teaspoon of salt, one-half teaspoon of soda, two cups of pastry flour, and add to the first mixture alternately with a half cup of milk. Blend thoroughly, then drop the dough from the end of a spoon on a well-buttered baking tin, allowing enough room for the cookies to spread. Bake from 15 to 20 minutes. This recipe will make 25 large cookies, or 50 small ones.

WELSH RAREBIT—Cut three cups of American cheese in small pieces. Put in upper part of double boiler or chafing dish, with one tablespoon butter. Season with one-quarter teaspoon salt, sprinkling of pepper, and one-quarter teaspoon baking soda. As the cheese begins to soften, slowly add one cup cream and one-half cup milk, mixed together. In a few minutes you will have a smooth, thick cream. Stop cooking at once, and add a dash of cayenne and one teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Serve on buttered toast.

CARAMEL PUDDING—Boil a can of condensed milk for three hours. When the three hours is up, remove the can from the water, and put it in the ice-box to chill. Then cut the can open, remove the contents, which have been carmalized. Cut in slices, and serve on slices of canned pineapple, topping with whipped cream or chopped nuts. You will find this pudding very rich, and a little of it goes a long way; so make the portions discreet.

* * *

SWEET POTATOES—Boil six sweet potatoes cut each lengthwise in two or three slices. Pour about a half cup of honey into a pan until the bottom is covered about a quarter inch thick. Let the honey become very hot, put in the sweet potatoes and cook for about 10 minutes. Serve with butter and salt. This is a most delicious way of serving your sweet potatoes.

CANDIED CARROTS—Boil six medium sized carrots until tender, but not mushy. Melt ¼ cup brown sugar with ½ cup butter, add ½ cup marshmallow cream. When well mixed, pour over carrots in a baking dish and bake in a moderate oven until a delicate brown. It will require about 25 minutes in the oven.

PITTSBURGHERS CHEAT FLOOD, BELIEF

GRAND CANYON, Ariz., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Belief that Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hyde, formerly of Pittsburgh, who disappeared while navigating the treacherous water of the Colorado River on a honeymoon adventure, still are alive spurred volunteers onward today in search of the couple.

A three-day airplane search, in which Lieuts. John Quincy Adams and W. G. Plummer, army aviators, risked their lives by flying below the rocky canyon walls of the Colorado, ended yesterday after having been partially successful.

The army airmen, descending 3,000 feet into the canyon until they were but 50 feet above the swirling water, Wednesday, located the home-made scow in which the honeymooners started down the river.

The aviators flew down into the canyon again yesterday, but found no further trace of the missing couple, who left here a month ago. They observed that the scow was intact and that suitcases and other supplies carried by Mr. and Mrs. Hyde were in the boat. This gave rise to the belief that the honeymooners may have abandoned the scow and now are wandering over nearby waste lands in an effrt to find their way back to civilization.

SCREEN'S 'GRAND OLD MAN' BARES HEARTACHE IN WILL

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The death of Theodore Roberts, "Grand Old Man" of the stage and screen, has lifted the curtain on a secret of his life.

His will, made public here today, reveals that he left his estate, valued at "more than $10,000," to his nephew, Edward Roberts Higgins, of New York City, with the explanation that Roberts had "suffered like him" as an exile from home.

"In my experience I remember neither affection nor sympathy from any member of my family until such accomplishment had been achieved by me that affection became a part of pride in relationship," Roberts said in the will, which was made here September 11, 1926.

"During the darkest hour of my life no word of sympathy or offer of help from any member of my family came to me, and I hungered for it as the wanderer in the desert thirsts for water. The pride that kept me silent as a neglected and unwanted child stayed with me through life, through many vicissitudes, and kept me silent even while in a prison cell.

WANTS TRUTH KNOWN

"Now that I am beyond the influence of all earthly things, I want these words said. If they leave any unpleasant atmosphere over my memory, so be it."

Only one member of his family, Higgins, shared "a kindred isolation from the family," Roberts related in the will. Higgins was designated to be the executor without bond.

The veteran actor who was buried here Tuesday, with many of the most prominent persons of the motion picture industry paying him respect, enjoined his nephew to apportion my belongings to the different members of my family, in accordance with his best judgment.

He asked to be buried here beside his second wife, but made no reference to his first wife except indirectly. Roberts served six months in Tombs prison in New York when he could not pay alimony to the first Mrs. Roberts, who had divorced him.

Rankin Woman Hit By Truck Asks $10,000

For internal injuries received in an automobile collision at Hawkins and Fourth street, Rankin, September 11, last, Mrs. Helen Wibner, who suffered many bruises, and her husband, A. J. Wibner, have brought suit against the Cudahy Packing Company for $10,000 damages. Attorney Sigmund Arnold who brought the action on behalf of his clients, sets forth that the truck of the packing company was running on the wrong side of the street, when the accident occurred and therefore the driver was negligent.

MYSTERY VEILS POLICEMAN'S DEATH

With his skull fractured, Patrolman John J. Schemm, 40, was found dead this morning in the hallway of 4203 Murray avenue. His head rested against an iron raditor. Police from the Hazelwood station began an investigation to determine the cause of death. Schemm had been beaten by a gang in that vicinity last summer.

Dr. H. T. Edwards, dentist with offices on the second floor of the Murray avenue address, found the body at 8:30 o'clock. Schemm's head rested against the radiator, but it could not be determined whether he had been attacked or had fallen, while descending the stairway. Schemm, who had been a patrolman for eight years, resided at 75 St. Martin street, South Side.

Girl Found Tending Still, Mother Held

Mrs. Constantine Strogens, 50, of 9 Wadsworth street, was held for court under $1,000 bail on a charge of violating the Snyder act as a result of a police raid on her home yesterday after Humane Agent A. C. Book testified he found Mrs. Strogens' 6-year-old daughter, Lillie, tending a 20-gallon still.

Michigan Governor Frees Boy Killers

IONA, Mich., Dec. 21.—(INS.)—Alvin Keller, 19, Rhinehold Treichle, 19, and Leon Long, 23, Watervillet's "boy murderers" of seven years ago, were at liberty today, released from the state reformatory here.

The youths, who gained their freedom on a Christmas pardon by Gov. Fred W. Green, had spent five years behind the walls of the prison for the murder of Henry Gerling, 80-year-old clock maker.

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

The Spice of Love

THE average man can never remember just what it was he said that gave a woman the right to go ahead and marry him.

What keeps this old world going 'round is woman's undying faith that love will last, in the face of her knowledge that nothing else ever does.

The supreme feminine art consists in flattering a man just happy with you—and not enough to make him think that you couldn't be happy without HIM.

HELEN ROWLAND

No really satisfactory way has ever been discovered to warm over a broiled steak, a cold baked potato, or a cooled romance.

Even when a husband talks only of golf, radio or monosyllables, it is sort of comforting to have something alive sitting around the house evenings.

There are still men in this innocent world who believe that the liquor with the fancy label is "just off the boat," and women who believe that the lover with the fancy line will "stay put, THIS time."

* * *

The woman who appeals to a man's vanity may intrigue him; the woman who appeals to his senses may allure him; but it's the woman who appeals to his imagination that gets him.

The man who plunges recklessly into a love affair is usually the first to swim out beyond the breakers where you can't catch him.

None so blind as those who are looking at another woman.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Your Nail Polish

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. I would like to know if it is proper to use the deep rose nailgloss? Isn't it too loud?

2. I am going to a semi-formal affair. Would it be proper to go without a hat? XYZ.

BY discriminating people the deep tones of nail polish, either in the dry or liquid, are not considered in good taste. The manufacturers of nail polish, especially of liquid polish, are now all offering "natural" shades, almost white. And these are pretty generally in use now, except by people who think that to be conspicuous is to be "in fashion." Well-manicured finger nails are so lovely that their naturalness in color should be artistically developed and maintained.

2. It isn't possible to answer this question, for the range of "semi-formal" is so inclusive. If you will be so kind as to write me again and tell me more about the party, I'll advise you definitely.

Bride's Position

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I never consider a day complete without turning to your column and learning something new each day. I find it of vital interest and am glad that I too have a question to ask. Will you kindly answer the following?

"A" says the bride enters the church on her father's right arm, carrying her bouquet in her right arm, and therefore goes down the aisle on the right hand side, and when reaching the altar, changes her bouquet to her left arm, and with her right arm takes the groom's left arm.

"B" says the bride enters the church on her father's left arm, and therefore goes down the aisle on the left hand side, carrying her bouquet in her left arm.

INTERESTED READER.

WHAT a gracious and thoughtful reader you are to say a pleasant thing—I wish that I could tell you how happy you made MY day start, for yours was the first letter that I opened this fine sunny morning! Thank you most heartily.

Both are correct, for there is no definite rule about this. Formerly the bride always went down the aisle on her father's left arm, but now, although often she chooses the left arm, usually it is the right arm. The reason is a logical and reasonable one—when they reach the head of the aisle, and it is the time for the father to step to the left until he is needed further in the ceremony, it is easy for him to step to the left without walking all around the train of the bride.

Steamed Potatoes

Prepare the needed number of potatoes the same as for boiling. Lay the potatoes in a steamer over fast-boiling water. Cover and cook for 35 minutes. This method makes them more delicate than boiling. If they must stand for a few minutes after being cooked, cover with one thickness of cheesecloth and stop the water boiling under them. This lets the steam pass off and protects them from the cool air.

Baked Apples

LOVE'S AWAKENING

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Philip Veritzen Plays a Hand in the Love Game

THOUGH Dicky's reaction to my recital of Edith Fairfax's telephone message told me that I had won the victory in our dispute over my continuing my work with Philip Veritzen, yet I knew that I must "double for the serpent and the dove," to use Lillian's paraphrase of the old Scriptural proverb—in any reference to the matter. But it was a distinct effort to keep any tinge of elation from voice and manner as I replied to his assertion concerning Edith that he would "curb her yen for attending to our family affairs." For within me was surging jubilant mirth at the way Dicky's partner in the art magazine venture had defeated her own aim by her tactless and officious speech to me.

"Oh don't say anything to her about it!" I exclaimed as if horrified, and added with the half-affectionate, half irritated scolding which is a wifely prerogative: "You'll be sure to put your foot in it, and make her thoroughly uncomfortable over something that doesn't amount to anything. As you say, she didn't mean anything, so why upset her by speaking of it? But you really ought to telephone her—she was quite urgent that she wanted to talk to you—and when you do be sure to second the invitation I gave her to come to the farmhouse. She hasn't been out here for ever so long, but she says that she hasn't a chance because there's so much work on hand in the office."

"She says more than her prayers on all occasions," Dicky grumbled, transferring his annoyance at me to Edith with suspicious alacrity. "But I suppose I would better phone her and get it over with. So long."

When the door had closed after him I drew a deep breath of satisfaction tinged ever so slightly by malice. I knew that Dicky never would take back the demand that I stay at the farmhouse during the winter. But that he would ignore it, and tacitly accept my going to the city for five days each week, I was certain. It interested and amused me to conjecture just how he would get out of retracting his ultimatum in so many words. I knew him well enough to be sure that if he had to travel around Cape Horn to get from the eastern end of the Panama Canal to the western he would do it rather than admit he had erred.

I was not left very long in doubt. For fear that Dicky might think I wished to overhear his telephone conversation with Edith I stayed in my room for a good half hour after he had left, occupying myself with watching the game upon the tennis courts, in which Noel Veritzen and Princess Olina were arrayed against Prince Georges and Mary. It did not take Sherlockian genius to deduce that Philip Veritzen had succeeded in his purpose of preventing Noel and Mary from being associated even as lightly as partnership in a game of tennis would involve. Through my field glasses I saw that the great producer no longer held his pose of Olympian disapproval, but was leaning back in his seat, peacefully smoking, and watching the game with a smile upon his face which I vindictively dubbed a Cheshire cat grin.

Then across the lawn from the house lazily sauntered Dicky's graceful figure, and I knew that his telephone conversation with Edith Fairfax was ended. I waited only until I saw him join Harry Underwood and Mr. Veritzen before hurrying down the hall to Lillian's room. I had not wished her to be present during my interview with Dicky, but I knew that she would be anxious to know the outcome of it, and there was nothing in it which was in any way a betrayal of Dicky's confidence. I knew that only their absence had prevented him from issuing his ultimatum about my remaining at the farm in the hearing of both Harry and Lillian Underwood. They are the type of friends closer even than relatives and, though all four of us are reticent where our deepest emotions are involved, a question such as Dicky and I had been discussing is looked upon by us all as a family affair.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Death Rate Remains High in Middle Life

THIS is a beautiful morning. As I write, my train is on the way from Detroit to Dexter, where I was born. To me, Michigan is a wonderful and beautiful state.

DR. COPELAND

What remarkable changes have taken place since I first traveled this route! Most remarkable of all is the improved public health and the lowered death rate.

The old cemeteries we pass tell the story of how the pioneers suffered. Malaria was more fatal then than scarlet fever is today. Now we rarely hear of a case of malaria, let alone a death from it.

When my ancestors located in Michigan, every last member of the family shook with the ague. Fortunately, not all of them had the attack on the same day. It was the "off day" for one or two of them, when the rest were suffering from chill, fever and sweat. The groups alternated in personal service as they did in illness.

It was thought then that a "miasm," poisoned air, was the cause of malaria. It was decades later that the mosquito was discovered to be the carrier of the disease.

Typhoid fever raged. Diphtheria and smallpox were common afflictions. Child birth was associated with a terrifying death rate for mother and baby.

Go through these old cemeteries and read the inscriptions on the tombstones: You will be shocked to find how many young mothers and infant children gave their lives to the unsanitary and unscientific conditions of that early day.

We have every reason to thank God and take courage. We are better off in a thousand ways than were those brave, old pioneers.

But there is much to learn from their lives. They had qualities and habits that are good for us to possess.

They were not afraid of the out-of-doors. They walked a lot. They exercised their muscles. They were in athletic trim all the time.

Our lives are too soft. We do not use our muscles, even those having to do with the chewing of food. The food itself is robbed of husk, covering and fibre. In consequence, the muscles of the intestinal walls have little to do. Constipation results.

We must not be too puffed up over the improvements of modern times. Great they are, they have not made life any safer between the ages of 30 and 50. In that period disease is just as fatal as it was a hundred years ago.

That is the time of life when strict attention should be given to the rules of personal hygiene and conduct. Fresh air, sunlight, moderate exercise, plenty of sleep, simple food and temperate eating, cleanliness of the body, lots of water to drink and a contented mind—these are important at all ages, but they are absolutely essential between 30 and 50.

How to Escape FLU

1 Avoid so far as possible the places where flu germs are most apt to be; crowded cars; public meeting places; warm, stuffy rooms.

2 Be careful of close contact with others and beware of all coughers and sneezers; breathe through the nose.

3 Get lots of rest. Eat plenty of citrous fruits. Keep the bowels open. Take every precaution to keep in good physical condition, so your system will have high resistence against germs.

4 Above all, avoid catching cold. Any cold may be the forerunner of flu. Take Bayer Aspirin at the first sign of a cold and you can ward it off. Gargle with Bayer Aspirin at first sign of sore throat, as this will remove the infection.

5 If you have any reason to suspect even a touch of flu, call your doctor.

Bucs Upset Mack Plan. Connie Mourns Sheely. Fight on Klem Denied.

LAYTON KING OF THREE-CUSHIONS.

Jimmy Foxx.

The success of the Athletics in giving the American League a real flag race during the latter part of the 1928 season, after the Hugmen seemingly had sewed up the gonfalon, led Mack to feel hopeful that his men would be able actually to beat out the Gothamites in 1929, but now it develops that the grabbing of Sheely by the Pirates may interfere with the chances of Connie's team.

Mack showed his disappointment at the time of draft. He admitted then that he had planned to claim Sheely for his own club. However, as the major outfits draw according to the positions they occupied in their leagues at the end of the season, in reverse order, Pittsburgh was ninth on the privilege list while the Athletics were fourteenth, so that by the time Mack's turn arrived Sheely was already the property of the Pirates.

EVIDENTLY the boss of the A's, though disappointed when the draw was made, did not fully realize then how hard the loss of Sheely was going to hit him, for he has only now discovered that first base is going to be his toughest problem next spring, a problem that Connie thinks would have been solved satisfactorily had Pittsburgh not snatched Sheely out of his grasp.

Mack used three players at first base at various stages of last season, Jimmy Foxx, Joe Hauser and Ossie Orwoll, each taking a turn at the bag. For next season, with Sheely lost, Mack will depend upon Foxx or Hauser to hold down the job unless he succeeds in capturing another first sacker in the meantime. "First base is our problem," Mack is quoted. "I may be able to make a deal for a first baseman before we go South, but if not I'll have to fall back upon Hauser or Foxx."

THE general dope has been that Mack would be handicapped by lack of outfield material, following the dropping of Cobb, Speaker and Le Bourveau and the retirement of French, but Connie says he has no worries in that direction.

"I am well satisfied with my outfield," he declared. "What more could any one ask for than Miller, Simmons and Haas? They rank with the best. Then there is Orwoll, who will do outfield work. That about satisfies me."

James J. Tierney

OFFICIALS of the New York National League club, in denying rumors that they insisted on the resignation of Umpire Bill Klem being accepted, say they desire it to be clearly understood that if Klem is not back on the staff of John A. Heydler next year it will not be due to any act on their part. "I do not know whether or not Klem has quit, beyond what I have read in the newspapers," Secretary James J. Tierney said, "but I do know that it never has been our purpose to have him dismissed. At the league meeting this month President Stoneham brought up Klem's decision on that Hartnett interference play, but he did this only in the hope of bringing about a better interpretation of the rules by the umpires in the future. The New York club does not wish to do anything that would cost Klem his job, but it does think that something ought to be done about the enforcement of the rule covering interference. It can be done if the umpires are properly instructed.

CLIMAXING all the other honors heaped upon Howard Harpster, Carnegie Tech's great quarterback, homage is to be paid the Tartan star next month by his home city, Akron, O. For the first time in its history, Akron, through its chamber of commerce will honor a native son who has won fame in football.

The date set for the event is Friday, January 11, and though arrangements have not been completed they have progressed sufficiently to assure that the affair, which is to be held in the Akron armory, will be the greatest of the kind on record in that part of Ohio. A high school basketball game will be followed by another between Akron University and Mt. Union, and then the capacity crowd that is expected to be present will turn its attention to doing honor to Harpster. Judge W. P. Steffen, Carnegie coach, and Harry A. Smith, Harpster's old coach at West High School in Akron, will be special guests.

A CHAMBER of commerce committee is deciding upon a fitting gift to be presented to the Plaid gridder in the name of the city of Akron. Frank Meese, who is chairman of the general committee, says: "I believe that Harpster has brought as much wholesome publicity and healthy attention to Akron as any rubber baron or any other citizen has done. He is the idol of Akron youngsters and an incentive for them to strive for greater heights.

"Pittsburgh has honored Harpster officially. Chicago has honored him. The Pacific coast will pay tribute to his skill. Akron must outdo all of these in its act of recognizing Harpster's greatness. He is Akron's own."

Johnny Layton

YOU'VE got to hand it to Johnny Layton as being the real king of three-cushion billiards. If any doubt as to Johnny's superiority over all other exponents of the angle game had still lingered in any quarter it would have been dispelled by the convincing manner in which he won the world championship tournament in Chicago. Willie Hoppe had been picked by many cue followers as the probable victor in the tourney, but, when the competition narrowed down to the final game between Hoppe and Layton, Willie was given worse than a two-to-one beating. Layton won easily by the decisive score of 50 to 23, and ran out in 24 innings, which means that he averaged more than two points to an inning.

THIS only clinches the right that Layton established on more than one previous occasion to be ranked as the greatest three-cushion player in the cue realm. Though the Chicago affair was the first ever held for the world title, Layton had won the equivalent of that honor by capturing the national championship no fewer than four times, first in 1919, next in 1921, again in 1922 and finally in the league tournament last winter.

Layton has tied the official high run record of 18, and is credited with an unofficial high run record of 22. In the league race last winter, with nine others in the competition, he finished first by a margin of a full game over Hoppe and Otto Reiselt, winning seven games against only two lost. During that race he made 428 points in his nine contests. His grand average was .982 and his highest run was 10, Augie Kieckhefer, with 12, being the only player to beat the latter mark.

GUS COPULOS, who once carried Pittsburgh's colors in the National Three-Cushion Billiard League, and who is known as the prize hard-luck player in the cue sport, repeatedly failing to get anywhere in spite of his remarkable ability, announces his retirement

MACKAY, $12,000 GIVEN HUB FOR FREDERICKSON

By CARL W. SHATTO.

YES, children, there is a Santa Claus.

Beardless, and somewhat lacking in girth, the elderly Mr. Kringle put in an appearance at Duquesne Garden last night. Kris first appeared in a Pirate hockey uniform and gave Pittsburgh fandom a neat Christmas gift in the form of a 1-0 triumph over the New York Americans, and later, after doing a quick change, he came out disguised as the Pirate management and gave local ice fandom another stocking full in the form of a new center, one Frank (Freddie) Frederickson, a great performer who clambered onto his sled when he was skidding through Boston.

In almost any society certain gentlemen can be found who insist upon regarding the tales of Santa and his deeds as just so much sausage, and certain of these were at the Garden last night. Their version is that the Pirates' victory over the National League leaders was no gift, because the locals earned it by completely outplaying the invaders throughout the fight, and as for Frederickson—they insist on pointing out that Owner Benny Leonard had to give Mickey MacKay and $12,000 to bring Freddie here, so he is not exactly a free package after all.

AMERICANS OUTPLAYED

And, at that, there may be something of truth in what the belittlers of the venerable Mr. Claus have to say, for there is no denying that the Bucs did outplay the Americans from the first gong to the last. It was in the third period, after five minutes and 19 seconds of the stanza had elapsed, that the Pirates' edge became most evident, for it was at that time that Hib Milks, Buc center, dribbled his way through the invaders' defense and lifted the puck over the right shoulder of Roy Worters for the tally that spelled Pittsburgh victory.

The Worters, over whose shoulder the disc passed in its memorable flight, is none other than the Worters who protected the Pirate cage until a few weeks ago, when he contracted the holdout habit. Looking at the moon over one's shoulder, Roy opined after the game, may bring bad luck, but looking at a puck as it passes over one's shoulder is much worse.

The goal turned in by Milks was the first registered by the Pirates in five games. Prior to that night they had suffered successive shutouts at the hands of the New York Rangers, Detroit Cougars, Ottawa Senators and the Americans. The victory, the first that the Cleghorn skaters have scored on home ice this season, brought to a close the New Yorkers' winning streak of five games, the longest of the season, and one that had carried the Gorman clan to the league crest.

BUCS SHOW TEAMWORK

At no time last night did the Americans look like title contenders, and the first two periods of

SHARKEY MAY SIGN TODAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(INS.)—Whether Jack Sharkey will be Young Stribbling's opponent in the proposed heavyweight bout at Miami Beach, Fla., February 26, may be determined here today at a conference between Promoter Tex Rickard and Johnny Buckley, manager of Sharkey.

Rickard declared Sharkey was a "chump fighter" after the Boston heavyweight declined to go through with the match, but later renewed his overtures and offered to let Sharkey bring his own referee.

Women's Indoor Tourney Postponed

The scheduled women's tournament at the Pittsburgh Course of National Indoor Golf Links, in the Smithfield Building, Sixth avenue and Smithfield street, has been postponed until after the holiday season, Manager John Martin has announced.

The girls have found it necessary to devote much of their spare time to Christmas shopping and such-wise, and therefore would not be able to participate.

Some 200 girls are expected to participate when the tournament is held, most of them working girls from downtown department stores and business houses.

MEMORIES RECALLED

The meeting of Maloney and O'Kelly tonight calls back to memory the days of blond Frank Moran, the Pittsburgher, and his Irish rival, Jim Coffey, the fighting motorman of New York. Twice, back in 1915, Moran knocked out Coffey, the pride of the Hibernians of New York, the first time in three rounds and the second time in nine. Both bouts were fought in the old Madison Square Garden. Moran's famous right hand swing, which he affectionately dubbed "Mary Ann," won fame in these two battles.

LOSS OF FLOOR FAILS TO KEEP I. K. S. IDLE

By JULIUS LEVIN.

HIS athletic program curtailed somewhat owing to the loss of the Irene Kaufmann Settlement House gymnasium, which has been torn down to make room for a more elaborate basketball court, Coach Joseph (Ziggy) Kahn, popular athletic director of the Hill district's community center, is carrying on despite his numerous handicaps.

Rather than abandon his athletic activities entirely Coach Kahn has been instructing his various basketball teams at Herron Hill High School, and judging by the form his passers have shown in their workouts to date they have suffered no hardships by the change in scenery.

The Irene Kufmann Settlement within a short time will boast one of the finest athletic plants in this section of the state and as a result the Center avenue institution is likely to take its rightful place among the leaders of amateur sports in this vicinity. A suitable gym has been a long-sought need of the I. K. S. and when the new building is completed its athletic facilities will equal the best of any similar institution in this section.

The Irene Kaufmann Settlement House has been for years one of the best community centers in the development of first-class amateur teams, thanks to the efforts of Ziggy Kahn and his predecessor, Harry Levine, former Fifth Avenue High, Pitt and Coffey Club star.

Kahn, who first gained fame as an all-round athlete at Central High School, started his coaching career at New Castle High School where he played a prominent role in helping the Lawrence countians win several track, field, football and basketball titles. While at New Castle he served as assistant to Coach Phil Bridenbaugh.

SUCCEEDED LEVINE

When Harry Levine resigned as athletic director at the I. K. S. it was thought for a time that the Center avenue community house would drop into oblivion insofar as basketball was concerned, but Coach Kahn soon dispelled this impression. One of the most popular leaders ever connected with the I. K. S., Kahn lost little time in showing the fans around the Hill District that the institution still rated among the best in amateur sports here. During his first year as athletic director his teams made a clean sweep of all amateur titles in this section, this in spite of the fact that their facilities were nothing to brag about.

The I. K. S., through the efforts of Coach Kahn, has developed numerous stars for local high school, collegiate and independent teams in past years, but with the new building nearly ready for occupancy, athletics should thrive better than ever. The I. K. S. is going to command recognition in local amateur circles as long as Coach Kahn has an active part in its activities and if the opinions of its members mean anything Kahn is there to stay.

"The Institutional League director has no authority to throw out games without consulting the board of arbitration," was the statement given out today by Athletic Director Stansbury, of the North Side Community House, when asked regarding what action his team would take as a result of the announcement by league officials yesterday that all victories scored by the North Siders have been reversed for its failure to abide by the registration rules.

"The members of my team are not responsible for this unfortunate situation," statesbury continued, "and I do not intend to see them suffer for a mistake made by me. The decision to throw out our victories was made without submitting the case to the arbitration board, a direct violation of the league rules. You can quote me to the effect that Community House has seen the last of league basketball until conditions in amateur basketball change. We'll handle our own affairs in the future without taking dictation from outside individuals."

Basketball Bag Awaits Boy Who Grabbed Ball

There's nothing like being congenial in basketball or any other line, according to Charley Price, manager of the Reliance Life team of the Allegheny County League. At the close of Wednesday's game between Reliance Life and the Miele-Franchinas at the One Hundred and Seventy-sixth Field Artillery armory, a youngster in the crowd grabbed the ball and dashed for home before any of the participants could stop him. Admitting that he does not cherish the thought of holding the bag, Manager Price announces that the empty sack may be obtained by the same youngster by calling Atlantic 0626. If a uniform is desired Price suggests the lad call at the Western Penitentiary to be accommodated.

OHIO N. TO TEST LOCALS

By JESS CARVER

Society Note: Mr. Chick Davies of the Homestead Davies and his young gentlemen of Duquesne University will be at home tonight to visitors from Ohio. This affair will open the winter season of engagements in Pittsburgh. A covert charge of one buck will be asked.

FOR the second year in succession, an Ohio college basketball team will assist one of Pittsburgh's best in opening the city's collegiate basketball campaign when Ohio Northern University of Ada, O., and the Dukes of Duquesne, clash on the Bluff gym court tonight. Last year, Muskingum's magenta and black stars came here and bumped our Dukes off in the season's initial fracas. It is to be hoped that tonight's event will be of more auspicious nature as far as the home boys are concerned.

Ohio Northern is finishing a three-game swing through this territory, and so far, has taken part in two inaugural events. The Ohioans met and bowed to Slippery Rock State Teachers Wednesday night and were in Grove City last night in an effort to put a few more grey hairs on Bob Thorn's coco. The last time I saw Robert Methuselah, he had one less hair on his head than I see when I look in a mirrow. Don't give up—the answer is 18.

DUKES FAVORITES

Tonight's contest has the general appearance of being headed for the Dukes' locker. The locals looked sufficiently impressive against Butler Y. M. C. A. Wednesday night to warrant the crack that they'll be able to handle Northern tonight. The

FAME FLEETING FOR STARS OF GRID

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

"NAME me three all-America players of last year—if you can!"

That was the answer of a New York sporting man, recently, when his advice was sought by Ken Strong, New York University star, who was debating whether or not he should turn professional and accept offers to capitalize his athletic fame in a few football games after his college career was at an end.

In other words, the answer was intended to be: "Get the money while you can, son; all-America heroes soon are forgotten."

Instead, Ken decided to remain true to Alma Mater and turned down the proffers.

Shortly afterward, Strong suddenly married and planned to take his bride with him on a trip to California for the East-West game, in which he had been invited to play, along with his teammate, Barabee, only to be informed by the authorities of New York University that permission for the jaunt would not be granted because both were a bit back in their studies as a result of time lost during the football season.

PERHAPS Strong has done some deep cogitating since then and has come to the conclusion that the sporting man, hardened to the ways of the world, was right in his advice.

It is said that N. Y. U. banked something like $200,000 on its most successful football season. In return, it finds, after the season is over, that Strong and Barabee are behind in their studies and so cannot take advantage of a fine trip to California for a game of which other colleges are glad to let their players avail themselves, and, as a token of its appreciation for the assistance of the newspapers in building up its great gates, it makes every effort to balk their attempts to find out something definite and true about the condition of Al Lassman, the captain of the eleven, who still is an invalid as the result of injuries suffered throughout the season and culminating with the bump he got in the Carnegie Tech game here.

It will be a long time before a lot of folks forget N. Y. U.'s most successful season in the light of the cases of Strong and Lassman.

Big George Godfrey, the Negro heavyweight, who is going through life famous as the Lieperville Shadow, has been around a lot, seen many things and met many men during his years in the ring. He started out as a sparring partner of Sam Langford, the Boston Tar Baby, and later was with Jack Johnson and Jack Dempsey as a sparring partner, and has fought Jack Sharkey, Johnny Risko, Paulino Uzcudun, Jack Renault and other leading contenders. Wherefore the views of the Shadow on the heavyweight situation should be interesting, to say the least.

GODFREY boxed Langford seven times, in addition to being his sparring mate, and he contends that roly-poly Sam was the hardest hitter he ever faced. Sam knocked him stiff in Covington, Ky., one night, and that's some place to be knocked in that condition, if anyone should ask you. George claims Langford is the only man who ever dropped him. Renault holds a technical knockout victory over him, but he says there was something funny about that one.

Dempsey was not in it with Langford as a hitter, in Godfrey's opinion, although Tiger Jack did break up sundry ribs for George during their workouts and forced the Shadow on the sidelines.

Paulino is described by Godfrey as the toughest egg he ever fought. He said he pounded the Basque unmercifully, but all the latter did was keep on coming back, spitting blood and flaring defiance and sticking it out manfully to the final bell.

As for Risko, Godfrey says he knows he beat Johnny, but just couldn't get the decision.

JOHNNY CAREY MAY REPLACE SCELLO

Phil Scello's knockout defeat by Johnny Carey at McKeesport last night may result in a switch in the semi-final bout at Motor Square Garden Christmas afternoon, Matchmaker Jules Beck said today. He is angling for Carey's services to replace Scello against Tug Phillips.

The windup, between Cuddy DeMarco and Rudy Seder, will stand as a result of Ceder's draw with Young Saylor at Johnstown last night.

An attempt to match Max Ziff and Charley Sabol, former amateur heavyweights, for the four-round opening bout, failed because Sabol is booked elsewhere on Christmas Day, but the pair will meet in one of the bouts on the New Year's card at the Garden. As a result of the failure to land this event for Christmas, Matchmaker Beck has signed Jack McCarthy to oppose Tom Harris in the opening bout, replacing Mike Smithhammer, who has retired from the match because of an attack of grippe.

In the two six-round bouts, Dan Billick will box Jackie Rodgers, and Tiger Joe Randall will meet Joe Colombo.

Irish Gorgas, former middleweight star of Lawrenceville, who twice has been reported dead in recent years, will return to the ring to-night to prove that he is very much alive in a three-round bout topping off a card of 12 events in Slovak Hall, Lawrenceville.

Tuffy Griffiths essays a comeback, following his recent knockout defeat by Jimmy Braddock, in the semi-final to the Jim Maloney-Con O'Kelly bout in Madison Square Garden, New York, tonight. He will meet Charley Belanger, the Canadian. Yale Okun and Tommy Kirby box another 10-round bout.

Ray Braun, local light-heavyweight, boxes Socko Trenaman at Cumberland tonight. Johnny Michaels and Tommy Ward, other local boxers, also are on this program.

GROVERS BEAT BUCKEYES

GROVE CITY, Pa., Dec. 21.—If the showing made here last evening against Ohio Northern may be predicated as a season criterion, Grove City College will have nothing to be ashamed of in basketball.

The Thorn-coached squad passed their way to a top-heavy score of 37-11 over the Buckeye state floormen in a game which was an apparent Grove City victory after the first five minutes.

The first half ended, 19-8, in favor of the Crimson.

For despite the fact that he averaged a point an inning, or 125 points in the same number of rounds, Copulos was unable to win a single game in the Chicago tourney. The somber-faced Greek is convinced that a hoodoo follows him through all tournaments, and prevents his winning blocks that go to his opponents through the weirdest breaks. In last winter's league race, for instance, he made only four points less for the season than Layton, the winner, but the best that Gus could get was fourth place. "I have no intention of quitting the game," he said, "but shall in the future confine my efforts to match play. No more tournaments for mine."

Tuffy Griffiths

NOT all of the attention of boxing fandom will be given to the main feature of the show in New York to-night, in which Jimmy Maloney is to hook up with Con O'Kelly. A goodly portion of it will be centered on the semi-final. In that number Tuffy Griffiths is to meet Charley Belanger, Canadian champion, and the efforts of the Sioux City light-heavyweight to redeem himself after the setback suffered at the hands of James J. Braddock will be followed with no little interest. Many ring followers still believe that Griffiths has the stuff and may yet regain the ground he lost in the Braddock defeat, which resulted largely from his blunders in getting up at the count of three or four following each knockdown instead of taking a rest until his head could clear. Tonight's show also is to decide whether Maloney is to be rated as a heavyweight championship contender again. He was considered done when knocked out by Jack Sharkey, George Godfrey and Tom Heeney, but recently attracted new attention by defeating Johnny Risko. Whether the latter means anything or not as an indication of what Maloney will do tonight or later is a question. He has been too unreliable in the past to be doped with any degree of safety.

THE slumping stock of the Pittsburgh hockey team took a pleasing jump last night, with the defeat of the New York Americans, after the latter had won five straight decisions, not only by reason of the Pirates' success in breaking their drab streak with their second victory of the season following a string of four games in which they had not even scored, but chiefly on account of the consummation of the deal that brings Frank Frederickson here from Boston.

Local fans will regret the departure of Mickey MacKay, who seemingly added considerable strength to the locals after his purchase, but there is no question that in parting with MacKay and $12,000 in cash in order to acquire Frederickson, Benny Leonard made a move that will greatly help the local outfit. There has been nothing wrong with the Blues defensively. What they needed was a high-class forward who could add a scoring punch and put an end to the goal famine. Frederickson should go far toward supplying that want and putting the team on the winning road.

TABERSKI PLAYS GREENLEAF

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The wrangling over who shall wear the first world's pocket billiard crown may be decided tonight when Ralph Greenleaf, national champion, and Frank Taberski, of Schenectady, N. Y., former national titleholder, replay their disputed game that brought the tournament to an abrupt close.

Greenleaf needs only one victory to clinch the title, while a victory for Taberski would throw the championship into a tie between the two ranking experts. Greenleaf won his first two games of the tournament, while Taberski dropped a game to Pasquale Natalie of Baltimore after defeating, Erwin Rudolph, of Chicago.

GRID COACH DIES OF STAB WOUND

CORVALLIS, Ore., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Lewis (Hip) Dickerson, assistant Oregon State College coach, died here this morning, as the result of a stab wound, inflicted last Tuesday by Lanza Bryant, 20, a Corvallis youth, in an altercation over a girl.

Bryant, who was arrested on an open charge, has been removed to Portland by Corvallis authorities who feared possible violence.

In a jail cell in Portland last night Bryant said:

"There was no intention on my part to stab Dickerson. There was a misunderstanding over a 'date' with a girl. I thought I had a date with her. She seemed to misunderstand and went with Dickerson. I met him on the street and struck him. I cannot account for the stabbing. I must have lost control of myself—I don't remember."

Prosecuting officers of Corvallis had announced that Bryant would be charged with murder in the event of Dickerson's death.

the game were two of the most one-sided chapters ever played at the Craig street arena. During the first 40 minutes of play the invaders carried the disc inside the blue line only once, and that was early in the second period when Reise let go a shot after the Pirate defense men had brought him to a halt. All other American shots were long drives from center ice which troubled Joe Miller not at all.

The Pirates, on the other hand, displayed their best teamwork of the season, and battered the American defense with one combination play after another. Right at the start of the battle Milks broke through the last line of defense only to lose control of the puck as he skated in on top of Worters, and a few minutes later Darragh let a perfect one pass from McCaffrey slip past him when he had only Worters to beat. Drury, Cotton and White made the strongest bids for tallies in the second chapter, and only great saves by Worters prevented scoring.

Until Milks scored in the third period, the Americans did most of their skating behind their own cage. The fury of the Pirate attack appeared to frighten them, and the forwards spent most of the time helping the defense men protect Worters. The poke and back-checking of the Bucs forwards was exceptionally effective. Almost every thrust of the visitors was broken up by the Pittsburgh forward wall.

EFFORT TO RALLY VAIN

Ten minutes of play remained after Hib had given the Bucs the lead, and in those last 10 minutes the Americans threw everything they had into the attack. But the Americans' best was far from good enough, for the local forwards insisted on spoiling their fun by stealing the puck from them in center ice, and this close checking made it a Pirate game right up to the finish.

The best fight between Holway of the Pirates, and Burch of the Americans, enlivened the closing minutes of the game. Lionel Conacher, American captain and former Pirate, suffered a scalp wound late in the last period when a shot by Darragh chose his head for a resting place.

The Bucs' exhibition last night was by far their best of the season, and with Frederickson in the lineup, a steady climb toward a money berth can be anticipated. The new center is to report to Manager Cleghorn in Toronto Saturday, and will be in the Pittsburgh lineup when the locals battle the Leafs in that city Saturday night.

Freddie, as he is known throughout the circuit, is one of the best centers in the sport. He broke into the National League in the 1926-27 season as a member of the Detroit Cougars, and near the close of the campaign he failed to "click" with the Detroit management and was traded to Boston. At the close of that season he was selected by critics as the most valuable center in the league. He finished third in the individual scoring race with 31 points.

REAL TOWER OF STRENGTH

Frederickson has been a tower of strength at Boston. Eager to keep his promise to Pittsburgh fandom to bring here the best players available, Owner Leonard did not hesitate to make the Bruins' high figure, although their demands came close to setting a record. Mickey MacKay, who was purchased from the Chicago Hawks at the start of the season and who goes to Boston in the deal, is a valuable player, and the $12,000 in cash which goes to Boston with MacKay is, well—$12,000 in cash.

Mickey performed well for Pittsburgh and many fans will regret to learn of his departure, but he was exceptionally susceptible to injury, and Manager Cleghorn preferred a more rugged player. Frederickson is a player of the rugged type. Big, rangy and strong, he has been known to play through an entire game without relief. No player in the league puts more power into his shots, and he fills a great Pirate need in that he is one of the circuit's best goal-getters. Freddie was a member of the Winnipeg team that won the Olympic championship at Antwerp in 1920 and before signing with Detroit he played in the Pacific Coast League in scoring for several seasons. The lineup:

|---|---|---|
| Miller | G | Worters |
| McCaffrey | RD | Reise |
| Holway | LD | Conacher |
| Milks | C | Burch |

LASSMAN SAID PARALYZED

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(INS.)—Al Lassman is partially paralyzed and his mind is far from normal, friends of the N. Y. U. grid star who was injured in the game with Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh 28 days ago, said today.

Several of Lassman's acquaintances who have succeeded in running the gauntlet of guards who stand watch over him at French Hospital doubt that he will ever completely regain his former health. These same friends say that his dream of becoming a heavyweight fighter and competing for Gene Tunney's vacated title has been blasted forever.

Doctors who are attending Lassman say there are several blood clots on his brain, but they are slowly being dissipated. If, by chance these clots should harden he will be permanently crippled, they say.

GIANTS AND CUBS LOOK BEST IN NATIONAL

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

THE Giants and Cubs continue to stand out as the most formidable National League entries for 1929, despite the recent swaps and other deals.

The Cardinals and Pirates, of course, must be figured as flag contenders, but it would seem that Messers McGraw and McCarthy have shaped up clubs that carry a championship flavor.

American Association followers will tell you that the Redbirds are materially strengthened through the acquisition of Third Baseman Fred Haney, who was a big factor in the pennant success of the Indianapolis club.

The Cardinals, nevertheless, must be said to have an uncertain infield what with Rabbit Maranville and Tommy Thevenow gone and Haney somewhat doubtful as the regular third sacker. Moreover, the St. Louis pitching staff is nothing to crow about.

The uncertain condition of the Pirate infield makes Donie Bush's club a big question. Perhaps Bush will be able to get together a hang-up first defense, and if he does the local team's chances will be much brighter than they seem at present.

It is reported that Andy Reese, clever utility player of the past two years, will be the regular second-sacker in the next campaign. Reese has more punch than Andy Cohen. The latter played good ball for the Giants; he is a fine teamworker and a willing worker, but Andy is a little shy on the offense.

The Cubs need only a dependable third-baseman to be a favorite for the flag. Joe McCarthy owns the best pitching staff in the league, and now that the Bruins have Hornsby, the drive of the club should be second to none. If they land Dugan they'll be a hot shot for the big honor.

tire of being with a team that consistently wins pennants and world series titles, but Dugan is not the type that likes to be lifted.

Pirate fans will quickly recall the havoc Joe wrought as the Pirates and Yankees tangled one year ago. If there was anything wrong with Dugan's knee he covered up his trouble in that short and thrilling series.

The former Holy Cross star was a wonder in coming in for bunts and he has ever been a dangerous batsman. Joe is not as good on the baselines as Pie Traynor, but he is not slow. Inasmuch as he thinks his knee will be in better shape next year it is patent that some major league club will make a tenstrike in landing him. Of course, he will have to be paid a bonus for signing, but a lot of teams will pay out $25,000 or better for recruits who probably won't deliver as well as this seasoned veteran.

Joe Dawson, Pirate pitcher and an aviator of much ability, is a busy boy these days with his students. Dawson is in charge of an aviation school. Naturally his outdoor work has kept him in top shape, so much so that he should be close to good condition when he leaves with the Bucco's for spring training.

Two young receivers of the Pittsburgh club are keeping fit for the next campaign. John O'Connell, Verona boy who finished the season with the Pirates, has put away his golf clubs and soon will go in for light gymnasium work with a view of being ready. Rolly Hemsley has been in town for several weeks.

The many friends of Caleb (Socko) McCarey, a member of the Pirate family, will be glad to learn that Caleb has just gone through a successful surgical operation at St. Johns Hospital. Socko expects to be out in a few days.

Chillysauce

Joe Dugan might be the means of winning a flag for the Cubs, and it is altogether likely that the departed Yankee star already is in communication with Joe McCarthy. With Woddie English an improved shortstop, the hot corner is the only weak spot in the Chicago infield.

Dugan had a fondness for the Pittsburgh club and it is probable that he still holds to it. It seems strange that an athlete should

HOPPE TO QUIT THREE-RAIL GAME

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Willie Hoppe, the boy wonder of other days, is ready to forsake his dream of winning a three-cushion billiard title and will once again take up balkline—the game at which he won international fame as 15-times national champion in 17 years.

Hoppe, whose name is synonymous with billiards, deserted the 18.2 ranks a year ago in quest of a championship at the angle game. His playing was the sensation of the American Three-Cushion Billiard League, but on each of two attempts to acquire a national or world title he found Johnny Layton, the Missouri fisherman and carpenter, barring his path.

Although he has seen his supremacy in the balk line game pass to another and failed in his quest of a three-cushion crown, Hoppe declares he is not through.

PROFIO, SCELLO LOSE BOUTS

Dominick Profio, of Cecil, Pa., suffered the first reverse of his professional career when he lost the judges' decision in his 10-round bout with California Joe Gans, McKeesport Negro, at McKeesport last night.

The decision was not popular, nor was it unanimous, the referee, Al Grayber, casting his vote for a draw.

Profio forced the fighting all the way, with Gans boxing cleverly on the defensive and marking up Dominick considerably.

The other scheduled 10-round bout between Johnny Carey, of Erie, and Phil Scello, of McKeesport, was a waltz until Carey finally knocked out Scello with a right cross in the fifth round and then apologized to Phil in the latter's corner.

Tom Maico, of Soho, won a technical knockout victory over George Kerston, of McKeesport, when the commissioner ordered the referee to halt the bout in the fifth round to save Kerston from further punishment.

Heydler Hopeful Plan Will Go Through

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Arnold Heydler, president of the National League, believes in the old saying, "If at first you don't succeed, try, try, again." He has not abandoned his idea of having a batsman for the pitcher, and thinks that eventually his proposal may find a place in the game of baseball.

"I still think it's a good idea," said President Heydler. "And I'm not alone in this position, either. I have had a basketful of letters indorsing the suggestion.

"We may not be ready for it now, but I have thought that we may yet get around to it.

"Innovations are slow to catch on. I remember that there was a tremendous uproar when an order went out that the pitcher must keep his foot on the rubber. The pitchers had been starting their deliveries away around to one side of the pitching rubber, giving a crossfire effect to every pitch.

"Pitchers said they could not pitch if they had to stand on the rubber, and one would have thought that the game would be just about ruined. The late Harry Pulliam, president of the National League at the time, said the order would stand and if experience in the spring exhibition games showed that it would not work, it would be rescinded. When the plan was tried it was found simple, and no effort has been made since to have the pitcher hop all around the infield."

EAST TEAM OFF FOR PALO ALTO DRILL GROUNDS

By

Howard Harpster

(Written Exclusively for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 21.—Wednesday evening the all-East squad was taken to one of San Francisco's finest theaters, where a very good program was enjoyed. Later in the evening, with several detectives added to the party, we were taken on a sightseeing trip through San Francisco's Chinatown. The trip proved very popular with the players, and practically all important meeting places, theaters and shops, were visited.

Yesterday morning after breakfast had been served at the Palace Hotel, the squad made a long sight-seeing trip through the city and its vicinity. The many fine residential sections were visited, and a long trip along the coast, which brought us back by the way of the Golden Gate, was enjoyed.

Howard Harpster

Arriving back at our headquarters at 12, we were entertained at luncheon by the Shrine Club at San Francisco. More than 1,000 Shriners were present at this affair, and each member of the East squad was introduced to the crowd.

Following the luncheon, the gathering was entertained by some of the most famous persons in vaudeville along the west coast. This was typical of the wonderful hospitality which the West has shown to our all-Eastern football squad.

Practice yesterday afternoon was similar to that of the day before, with the exception that a lengthy forward pass scrimmage was added. The team is fast rounding into shape and Coach Kerr seems to think that this year's squad is in much better condition than the group of players who represented the East in 1927.

Today the team leaves for Palo Alto, where it will remain in seclusion until game time on the twenty-ninth.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—E. S. Barnard, president of the American League, and John A. Heydler, president of the National League, conferred at the National League offices yesterday on matters of interest to the two major leagues, growing out of the recent joint meeting at Chicago. The results, if any, of the conference were not announced.

DUKES PLAY

Ohioans were taken over the road by Slippery Rock, winding up with an 11 point deficit. How-the-so-ever, the Teachers have an impressive acting quintet, one that would test the powers of most any college five in the section.

The Duquesne starting lineup will not be known definitely until game time, but it is likely that Lubic and Benedict will be at the forwards with Joe Vernon at center and Capt. Rosenberg and Brud Stephens at the guards. Peter Pan Collodi, Joe (Smiles) Vizza and Joe Paolino Palamone will get the first calls if replacements are needed.

Those of you who are familiar with the Davies system and have seen it work in past season may expect no startling change in the style of play the Dukes will employ this season. There are one or two slight differences in the attack, but of course, the main idea is still to get the ball through the hoop.

Risko to Meet Schaaf in Boston

BOSTON, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Johnny Risko, Cleveland heavyweight, has agreed to battle Ernie Schaaf, of Boston, in a 10-round bout at the Boston Garden on December 28. Risko appeared here two weeks ago when he lost a close decision to Jimmy Maloney. Jimmy Berne, Louisville heavyweight, will meet Phil Mercurio, of New York, in the 10-round semi-final.

MAY QUIT LEAGUE

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Unless more support is forthcoming, Bloomington may be forced to surrender its Three-Eye League franchise.

K. A. C. PASSES MEMBERSHIP QUOTA

The Keystone Athletic Club will be the first organization of its kind in the country to open its doors with a waiting list.

This fact was definitely established yesterday when the announcement was made at the weekly luncheon meeting of the club's membership committee that the quota of 3,500 had been reached and in fact surpassed by a margin of seven members which will be considered as the first to be listed on the waiting list. This group, headed by John R. Longabaugh, met in the William Penn Hotel, and during the past several months has been directly responsible for the closing of the quota and the addition of more than 300 members to the club's roster. It was announced by Arthur Kugeman, the club's business manager and director of membership activities during the past three years.

With the reaching of the quota of 3,500, the Membership Committee learned that its personnel is to be considered a permanent body to function in an active and advisory capacity. This action was taken by the board of directors of the organization.

SOCCER MATCHES TOMORROW INTERESTING

By TOM BIRKS.

WITH the Western Pennsylvania senior cup semi-final scheduled for Pitt Stadium Christmas Day, the league games scheduled over the week-end probably will serve to warm up the fans for the holiday affair. Tomorrow's sessions in the District League should prove a little more interesting than the battles have in the past few weeks. The Pittsburgh Rovers will hook up with the Union Switch and Signal at Swissvale and seeing that Jack Campbell is taking a lot more interest in the doings of the Swissvale club, it is expected that the Rovers are going to have a tough time.

For some reason or other mostly the forward-line reason, the Switch outfit never seemed to get started in the Douglas game last Saturday, and it seems that the crying need out Swissvale way is a good shooting center forward who has plenty of bustle. The work of Dunn is great in the halfback line, he breaks up the opposing forward line very well and passes to his forwards just at the right time, but the forwards cannot seem to take advantage of the opportunities given.

Williamson is fast, but does not center at the right time. Stack is a halfback and never will be able to step into the forward line. Halfbacks can fall into the backfield when they start to slow up, but the writer has never known a halfback ever move up into the forward line and meet with any success.

LOST ART

It seems in local soccer that the art of the wing man running to the corner flag and then centering the ball head high for the inside men is a lost art. The forwards who can do this important trick in soccer football can be counted on the fingers of one hand, and it is essential to the success of the club, because, until wing forwards get this knack, the art of goal getting is lost in the shuffle.

The Pittsburgh Celtics will appear at Homewood playgrounds, and this should be a good attraction for the Homewood fans. The Green and White of Lawrenceville has the right idea in soccer and the fact that the Celtics defeated Pittsburgh a couple of weeks ago, means that Pittsburgh will try to get revenge for that upset.

Chambers Field, East Pittsburgh, should see the greatest crowd of the year when the former National champions from Heidelberg appear in an American League engagement. This game should prove to be a good workout to get Heidelberg on edge for the cup game at the home of the Pitt Panther next Tuesday. Dunlevy will have the Corinthians to get them into shape.

But seeing that the American League race is going to be a fight between Westinghouse and Heidelberg, much hearing hinges on the outcome of this game. This will be the first time that the famous Green and Gold has appeared at Chambers Field, and the Turtle Creek Valley should be well represented.

CARD CHANGED

The West Penn Football Association announces that, owing to sickness on the Dunlevy club, a change has been made in the playing of the Senior semi-final game at Pitt Stadium, Tuesday. So, instead of Heidelberg and Dunlevy doing their stuff, the Pittsburgh Rovers and McKeesport National Tube will be the clubs to play to the holiday crowd.

However, if many new fans are going to take in their first game of soccer on Christmas Day, no two clubs could provide the fans with a real exhibition of scientific soccer football.

Hoover in White House Is Raising 1929 Confidence.

—By B. C. FORBES—

THE higher up the business man, the greater the importance he attaches to the presence of Herbert Hoover in the White House as a helpful, stabilizing influence upon prosperity during the coming year.

Sometimes I wonder if there is not a disposition to expect President Hoover to work miracles beyond the compass of any human being. Everybody has been fond of telling our farmers that they must rely little upon governmental help and almost entirely upon self-help. Industry and business as a whole must also be prepared to depend mainly upon self-help rather than upon anything the nation's chief executive can accomplish for them.

BE that as it may, the prospect of Mr. Hoover's presence at the national helm is frequently given first place by influential business leaders when asked why they feel optimistic over next year's prospects.

Said Alvan Macauley, president of Packard Motor Car Company:

"I am very well satisfied with the outlook for 1929. Our new president will take office with a better preparation and training than any other president that has occupied the White House in generations. Business conditions are at the maximum of prosperity and Mr. Hoover will know how to foster them.

"The outlook for the motor car industry is particularly bright. Our people have learned that the motor car is not only the most desirable form of transportation, but also that it is the creator of prosperity and wealth. The sale of motor cars in America will be limited only by the development of good roads and the general prosperity of the people.

"In foreign countries, Europe, Asia and Africa, the use and demand for the motor car is developing as it did in America.

"The foreign markets, plus the certain demand from America, assures American manufacturers another record-breaking year."

"We look forward to 1929 with every confidence that the automobile industry will continue to expand both its domestic and export activities.

"The incoming administration is pledged to a continuance of the policies which have been so beneficial to business during the five years of the Coolidge administration. Moreover, the President-elect has a better knowledge of business all over the world than any of his predecessors. This is a most helpful augury for our export.

"It is not to be forgotten that the automobile export business is steadily growing. In 1928 there will be exported ten times as many cars and trucks as represented the total output, domestic and export, twenty years ago.

"In markets like South America and Australia, where distances are great and adequate transportation facilities are lacking, there is an immense market for our cars and trucks. Moreover, in South America and Australia automobiles will not meet any home competition. Even in the industrial countries of Europe we are making enormous progress because of our superior manufacturing skill at low cost.

"Therefore, I believe that 1929 will not only see the greatest export business in history, but will be marked by a record-breaking increase in volume.

"Every factor at home points to increasing volume. Two or three cars per family are becoming quite general.

"The manufacturer whose retail outlets are sufficiently numerous and well financed, and who will apply the proper measure of energy and resourcefulness, should have no fears about 1929."

THE Victor Talking Machine Company has been figuring extremely prominently in this year's advance in security prices. The company's shares have risen from a low point of 52 to a high point of above 150. It will interest many, therefore, to know how the president, E. E. Shumaker, sizes up the outlook. Said he:

"When our business is prosperous—and it is—the country as a whole must also be prosperous. The purchase of musical instruments indicates a prosperous condition, for it reflects the ability of the country to buy, not only the essentials of life, but more than the bare necessities. We can see no evidence of unwillingness or hesitation in buying.

"Consequently we look to 1929 as possibly the greatest in the history of American industry. Every index of national financial soundness points to a continuation, and even an expansion, of widespread prosperity. Never in the world's history has there been in any other country so wide a distribution of wealth. Never has any country faced the future with greater possibilities, or brighter prospects, than our country has.

"Our own industry, including manufacturers, distributors and dealers, cannot fail to share in the general well-being. The forward-looking attitude of any company is demonstrated in continued research and frequent development of better instruments and records. With these factors combined, continued success is guaranteed."

NOTHING depressing about any of the foregoing, is there?

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—Reports that farmers are selling only enough corn to supply Christmas money, helped give firmness to corn prices today, and to steady wheat and oats. Country offerings of corn to arrive today continued light and cash houses here were buyers of future deliveries. Opening at a shade decline to ½c advance, corn later showed all around gains. Wheat started a shade lower to ⅛c up and held near to the initial range. Provisions were easy.

Despite favorable weather for movement of the corn crop, receipts of corn in Chicago today totalled just 120 cars and at Kansas City the arrivals fell below 100 cars, hardly a third as much as on the corresponding day last year. Under such circumstances, previous speculative sellers of corn switched rather generally to the purchase side of the market, and a house with foreign connections also was conspicuous as a buyer.

Upturns here in wheat prices were influenced somewhat by Liverpool reports of absence of selling pressure abroad. Large shipments of wheat from Australia to non-European countries, India in particular, was a feature. Besides, Italy was reported to be in the market today for the durum variety of wheat.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Local Market Firm

Stock Prices Soar

PLYMOUTH OIL FIRM ON LOCAL EXCHANGE

Stocks were steady to firm on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange, reflecting continued improvement in the general list in New York.

Steel issues led the movement again on the "big board," while the local market lacked an outstanding leader. Plymouth Oil was in moderate demand in the early dealings and sold during the forenoon at a new high since the shares were admitted to the official list a few days ago. Arkansas Gas common and preferred were both steady and changed hands at prices about equivalent to those prevailing in the final dealings last night.

Miscellaneous manufacturing stocks showed no material changes in quotations. Suburban Electric Development was traded in around 28, the best level the stock has reached during its short period in the official list. National Fireproofing preferred was off a small fraction, ignoring the persistent reports that the stock will be restored to a dividend basis in the near future.

The local curb market was fairly active. Western Public Service was in demand again, but prospective buyers did not appear inclined to bid the stock up. Several hundred shares changed hands on the opening at 21. Aluminum Goods Manufacturing changed hands at 28, the price at which it sold throughout the session yesterday.

A. M. BYERS CO. SALES SHOW INCREASE

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

Sales of the A. M. Byers Company have been greater during the last three months than in the same period a year ago. Although a seasonal depression is being felt as demand for pipe for building purposes declines, a good volume is being maintained.

The quarters ending December 31 are usually the poorest of the fiscal year for this company. They are normally periods during which inventories are built up to meet the heavier demand in January.

Net profit for the present quarter will be greater than in the corresponding three months of 1927 when $259,171 was earned. This was equivalent to 76 cents a share on the 199,340 shares of common stock after deducting dividends of the $6,108,800 of 7 per cent preferred stock.

The company's fiscal year starts on October 1 so that the current period is opening with the promise of exceeding the last fiscal year. The 12 months ended September 30 were the best in the company's history. Net profit was $1,577,511 or $5.76 a share. These figures are subject to a final audit. The annual report, which will make some adjustments, will be published by the end of this month. It is expected that the final figures will be greater than the preliminary ones.

BIDS TAKEN ON PLANT

Bids are being taken on portions of the construction work on the new $10,000,000 plant near Ambridge. The work will be well under way within a month. The new plant will be devoted to the production of wrought iron by the Aston process. Production by the new methhod is being satisfactorily carried on at the Warren plant. The increased output at that point has been an important factor in the closing of the hand-puddling plants at Girard, O., for short periods recently.

Halfgarten & Co., of New York, are expected to participate in any future financing of the Suburban Electric Development Company. It is understood that an interest in the stock has been acquired. Such a strong banking affiliation, in addition to the local connection with K. W. Todd & Co., materially improves the company's position.

Suburban Electric has had a very good year, and 1929 will probably be better as a result of the fact that the territory has been practically doubled. An extra dividend of 12½ cents was recently declared in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of 37½ cents. The company is distributor for Frigidaire electric refrigerators and Delco-Light products in this district.

The Automobile Finance Company is diversifying its operations so that future earnings will not be entirely dependent on automobile sales.

An arrangement has just been made with a large furnace manufacturing company for financing both their dealers and retail sales. This will increase the business by about $250,000 a year. The volume of financing handled during the next month is well ahead of last year.

TO SHOW LARGE NET

In the first 11 months of this year net income was $61,203. After deducting preferred dividends for the period this was equivalent to $2.06 a share on the common stock. Net for the entire year will be the greatest since 1925, when $91,742 was earned.

The extent of this year's improvement in the steel industry is indicated by a survey by the National Bank of Commerce in New York. Since 1926 the trend of earnings was downward until the second quarter of this year.

The profits of 34 companies in 1927 were 25 per cent less than those of 1926. In the first quarter of 1928 the net profits of 17 companies were 21 per cent less than in the same quarter of 1927. In the second quarter, however, they increased to 4 per cent over the corresponding period of last year. # WHAT'S ON THE AIR

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

A LION breaks loose from a circus zoo, an old time favorite song is brought back to life, Bob and Mary go to Baltimore, a preview of a Christmas celebration in the Reveillon in Paris—these are some of the incidents that will be brought to the radio audience tonight through Pittsburgh stations.

For the first time in several nights no nationally famous artist is scheduled to appear. The programs, however, are quite choicy and should delight listeners.

A change in the Columbia network program will bring the United Choral Singers before the WJAS michrophone at 8 o'clock instead of 10. They will present "Romeo and Juliet."

A well-balanced program has been arranged for the Dixie Circus over KDKA at 7:30 p. m. "Uncle Bob" Sherwood will give a minute description of how "Caesar," a ferocious lion, escaped from a circus den and set the colony in an uproar.

SANTA CLAUS AT KDKA

Old St. Nicholas will put in an appearance at KDKA tonight at 5:30 p. m.

Keith McLeod will play Romberg's "Song of Love" on the vibraphone in the Stromberg-Carlson concert at 10 o'clock. The program will open with an old-time favorite, "In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree."

Julius Huehn, baritone, who represented this district in the Atwater Kent Auditions, is the featured artist on WCAE tonight at 7 o'clock.

A harp solo, "Christmas Fantasy," will be offered on the Cavaliers program at 8 o'clock. "Little Boy Blue' is the closing number.

Orchestra, organ, harp, chimes voices will combine in the second part of the "Evening in Paris" from WCAE at 9 p. m., while the Edna White Ensemble of Trumpeters will be heard from this station at 10 o'clock.

OLD TUNE "PEPPED"

A modern fox trot arrangement will be used to "pep" an old-time ballad on the "Then and Now" presentation at 10 o'clock over WJAS. The selection is "Hearts and Flowers."

Mendelssohn's "Wedding March," a tenor solo, "In Old Madrid," and a contralto-tenor duet, "In a Little Spanish Town," will be offered by the Crystal Gazer at 10:30 p. m.

The march from Delibes' pastoral ballet, "Sylvia," will be played as the opening number of the Slumber Music over WJZ at 11. Rafael Galindo will play a selected violin solo while the string section will present Rubinstein's "Melody in F" and "Chant d'Amour," by Zarzycki. WLW at Cincinnati, WTMJ at Milwaukee and WEC at Washington will pick up this feature tonight.

Influenza Peak Passed; Most of the Cases Mild

No more welcome Christmas gift could be given the people of Pittsburgh than that of Dr. Phillip E. Marks, head of the bureau of infectious diseases, who announces that the peak of the influenza epidemic has been passed.

From now on there should be a rapid decrease in the number of new cases. However, do not relax your vigilance. A little care will give you just as good health in the winter as in the summer.

Surgeon Gen. Cumming of the Federal Public Health Service, at Washington, says reports from all over the country show the majority of influenza cases are of mild form. This would indicate that the epidemic will soon be at an end.

Diseases of the respiratory tract, of which influenza is one, are best prevented by living in fresh air. See that the place you work in and the room you sleep in are well ventilated.

Council to Hear Subway Plans of Transit Body

The Transit Commission, which is working on the proposed subway for Pittsburgh, is losing no time. Yesterday Pittsburgh Council decided to hold a conference the first week in January at which the commission will be given an opportunity to present its plans.

It was pointed out that now is the time for action as the Legislature will be in session during the early months of 1929 and it may be necessary to secure its aid in clearing the way for the building of the subway system in Pittsburgh.

Ten years ago a bond issue of $6,000,000 was authorized for the building of what is known as the "downtown loop." This contemplated the construction of a street car tunnel from the neighborhood of Neville and Fifth avenue, in Oakland, to the downtown section where it took the form of an irregular circle, embracing the business triangle. The chief idea was to eliminate surface cars in the business section of the city between the two rivers and Grant street.

Since this bond authorization there has been a heavy increase in all kinds of traffic throughout the city and the proposal of a decade ago will have to be brought up to date.

It is only fair to presume that at the coming conference between Council and the Transit Commission a practical plan will be evolved to give Pittsburgh transportation facilities that will not only take care of the present demand but also provide for the future.

Big Shipment of Steel By the Old River Route

It was one of the largest tows to leave the Pittsburgh harbor and carried approximately 14,000 tons of plate, structural forms and tin plate loaded in fifteen barges. In addition there were three barges carrying coal.

On slow-time shipments the rivers are certain to come into their own again and contribute a generous portion to the prosperity of Pittsburgh and the country at large.

Sunshine Is Strength And Health

Remember It, for Your Children's Sake.

CHILDREN IN THE SUNSHINE AT SUNNYSIDE, L. I.

This picture shows part of a row of little children at Sunnyside, L. I. Doctors say sunshine is almost as important to the health of the body as fresh air itself. Sunnyside realizes it, and dresses the children accordingly. Here you see a few of the youngsters on their way to good health.

Get your children into the country, get a little place in the far country or suburbs, let your children have fresh air, sunshine, exercise, FREEDOM.

The city is NOT a place in which to bring up children.

One of the best things ever written about children is: "God may forgive you for not giving food that costs money. He will not forgive you for depriving them of sunshine and fresh air that cost nothing."

SUN-TELEGRAPH'S PLATFORM

2—Rapid transit.
3—Repeal or modification of "blue law."
4—Establishment of Pittsburgh metropolitan district.

Tales That Are Told

The Family Skeleton

HE WAS always boasting about his ancestors, and eventually decided upon employing a genealogist to hunt them up.

In due course the connoisseur of pedigrees returned and was cordially received by his patron.

"So you have succeeded in tracing back my ancestors? What is your fee?"

"Forty guineas," replied the other.

"H'm!" murmured the patron dubiously. "Isn't that rather dear? What's it for?"

"Principally," responded the genealogist, "for keeping quiet about them. One was hanged at Tyburn."—London Answers.

A Sickly Child

SHE was a dear old lady just entering her ninety-fourth year, when the sudden decease of her daughter, a spinster of 70-odd summers, prostrated her with grief.

Many were the messages of sympathy she received from people in the village.

One afternoon the preacher called personally to offer his condolence and help her to bear up bravely, but his efforts were in vain. The old lady refused to be comforted.

"Ah," she moaned wearily, "poor Pansy, poor Pansy! Cut off like a flower she were! I allus knew I'd never be able to rear that girl!"

Easily Settled

THE senior partner arrived to see the outer office occupied by seven men, each of whom wished him a very good morning.

"What's all that crowd doing out there?" he asked his junior in the private office a few seconds later.

"Well, you know we wanted an efficient and capable clerk? I advertised, and there they are."

"H'm," murmured the other. "How do you intend to pick your man out, my boy?"

"Oh, easy. I imagine the brightest of that gang'll find some way of getting rid of the other six."

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

SO we had to go to police court for a joke again. When the joke market gets real low, you can generally count on the police court to fill in the gap.

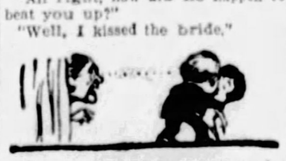
Well, the guy was dragged in all bloody, and he says, "Your honor, I was beat up by Jones, over there. I was best man at his wedding."

"Well, what's that got to do with it? Did you behave yourself at the wedding?"

"Sure, and we was the best of friends."

"All right, how did he happen to beat you up?"

"Well, I kissed the bride."



"Jones, what do you mean by knocking the head off a man for kissing the bride at your wedding? And the best man and all! Terrible! Didn't you know it's customary in this country to kiss the bride?"

"Yes, your honor, but this guy waits four years, and then kisses the bride when he thinks I ain't looking. That ain't so good, is it? And so I showed him he ain't the best man any more."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

I WILL hold beauty as a shield against despair.
When my heart faints I will remember sights like these:
Bronze cypresses that framed a sapphire sea—
A desert mesa wrapped in sunset flame—
An airplane that raced the Overland
Above a trail still marked with whitening bones—
Lit by one amber beam that fell aslant—
Foam, silver laced, along a curving wave—
Sprawled golden hills, with shadows like spilled wine—
Tall office buildings, rearing through the night
Sheer walls of alabaster, pierced with gold—
And snowflakes falling on a lonely pine.

I will hold Beauty as a shield against despair.
When my heart faints I will remember sights like these:
The dawning wonder in a baby's face—
The kindness in a weary wanton's smile—
The gallant challenge of a cripple's grin,
Seeing, forever, bodies that are straight—
The fighting courage in a mother's eyes
As she waits, braced, to meet birth's ripping pain—
The shy adoring of a boy's first love—
The eager fury of his first crusade
Against some wrong which he alone can right—
That tolerance that sometimes comes with age—

When my heart faints I will remember sights like these,
Holding their beauty as a shield against despair—
For if I can see glory such as this
With my dim eyes, my undeveloped brain,
And if from other darkened, selfish lives
Such flashes of brave loveliness can come,
Then surely there is Something—more than this Sad maze of pain, bewilderment and fear,
And if there's Something—I can still hope on.

PLEIADES REIGN

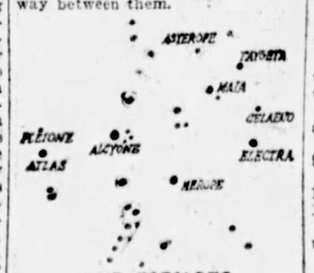
By Garrett P. Serviss

GO OUT of doors about 10 o'clock at night now and if the sky is clear you will see near the meridian, high in the south, the age-famous group of stars called the Pleiades. It is not their individual brightness that makes them so remarkable an object, for they are all small stars, but their singular appearance of being associated together in a glittering company which by the combination of its innumerable rays produces the effect of a shining swarm. Those who know the history of the Pleiades are likewise impressed by the reflection of their ancient renown. For there are no stars in the heavens that have been so long and so universally celebrated. Old legends connected them with the Deluge, or with traditions of the beginning or the end of the world. When primeval astronomy was a priestcraft the Pleiades played a foremost part in the superstitious observances of the early religions. From Chaldea to Mexico, from Egypt to the British Isles, among Druids and sun and star worshippers of every variety, the Pleiades were ever a celestial arcanum.

Curiously enough, modern science has revealed the fact that this strange group of stars really has something mysterious concealed within it—though the mystery is purely physical and not at all occult in its nature. Not only is the group, as a whole, traveling together through space like a flock of migrating birds, but its stars are intermixed with a wonderfully complex system of nebulous clouds, streamers and spirals, which, though invisible with telescopes alone, yet when pictured by powerful photographing instruments present perhaps the most amazing of all astronomical spectacles—not so grand as the Orion or the Andromeda nebula, but far more complicated and puzzling in their details. About all that can confidently be said concerning this extraordinary phenomenon is that it has some essential connection with life history of stars and the interrelation between them and nebulae.

On account of this universal renown of the Pleiades in both history and science, it is worth anybody's while to become acquainted with the group by seeing it in the sky, as can easily be done at this season by simply facing southward about 10 in the evening and raising the eyes high toward the center of the sky, where the Pleiades will be distinguished, as before said, not by their brightness but by their forming a conspicuous little sparkling cloud of starry rays, which once seen can never afterward be mistaken. The bright reddish star to the left or east of the Pleiades is Aldebaran, in the V-shaped figure of the Hyades. Farther toward the east and lower blaze the great stars forming Orion, especially Betelgeuse (orange) and Rigel (white), with the marvelous three-starred "belt" half way between them.



THE PLEIADES

But, to return to the Pleiades, here is a little chart which will enable you, if you use an opera-glass or small telescope, to recognize the principal Pleiades by their names. The old legends called them the daughters of Atlas, and the star of Atlas is seen at the left of the group, with that of Pleione, the mother of the Pleiad sisters, just above it. The chief of the sister stars is Alcyone, whose brilliance is enhanced by her three little attendant stars. Merope, Electra, Maia and Taygeta are all bright and easily visible, together with Alcyone and Atlas, to the naked eye. But Celaeno is relatively faint, and the beautiful little pair called Asterope is with difficulty distinguished without a glass. But a good opera-glass or field-glass shows them all, together with the multitude of smaller stars around them, a few of which are shown in the chart.

Isn't It So?

There is only one thing a woman loves better than being told a secret, and that is to find it out for herself.

Bible Passages

"Rejoice in the Lord"

(Psalm 33.)

REJOICE in the Lord, O ye righteous: for praise is comely for the upright.

For the word of the Lord is right; and all His works are done in truth.

He loveth righteousness and judgment: the earth is full of the goodness of the Lord.

By the word of the Lord were the heavens made; and all the host of them by the breath of His mouth.

He gathereth the waters of the sea together as an heap: He layeth up the depth in storehouses.

Let all the earth fear the Lord: let all the inhabitants of the world stand in awe of him.

For He spake, and it was done; He commanded, and it stood fast.

The Lord bringeth the counsel of the heathen to nought: He maketh the devices of the people of none effect.

The counsel of the Lord standeth for ever, the thoughts of His heart to all generations.

Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord; and the people whom He hath chosen for His own inheritance.

The Lord looketh from heaven; He beholdeth all the sons of men.

From the place of His habitation He looketh upon all the inhabitants of the earth.

He fashioneth their hearts alike; he considereth all their works.

There is no king saved by the multitude of an host: a might man is not delivered by much strength.

An hose is a vain thing for safety: neither shall He deliver any by His great strength.

Behold, the eye of the Lord is upon them that fear him, upon them that hope in His mercy;

To deliver their soul from death, and to keep them alive in famine.

Our soul waiteth for the Lord: He is our help and our shield.

For our heart shall rejoice in Him, because we have trusted in His holy name.

Let thy mercy, O Lord, be upon us, according as we hope in thee.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

White Fields

SIX months ago the fields were white
And earth was very fair;
The clover's fragrance spilled delight
Upon the drowsy air.

And to the hum of honey bees
The golden hours sped;
Birds chorused in the leafy trees,
Blue skies arched overhead.

Today again the fields are white,
But not with clover's bloom;
No wooing linnet soars in flight
Through summer's glowing room.

Cold, cold the winds and bare the boughs
Beneath the sullen sky;
But fair as when spring heard love's vows,
The wide, white meadows lie.

White fields that wear a robe of snow,
Pallid beneath the moon,
Are ghosts of fields six months ago
Where clovers bloomed in June.

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—Thoughts while strolling: The apartment house where Edgar Saltus used to live. Nothing makes a fellow look so dressed up as a new pair of bright yellow gloves. Hatless squirts in coonskin coats. Eleven vocal studios in a block. And earmuffs are out of fashion.

Booking agents, acrobats and the oily-haired boys who wear a fresh white silk shirt every day. William and Hattie Belle Johnston. Deems Taylor, a New York boy, who made good in the city. Those toney specialty shops with branches at Palm Beach and Newport. Means nothing, but looks grand on letter heads.

Red checked tablecloths and napkins "in again." Young loafers around the coffee pots. And autograph hounds around the stage doors. The Wyndham—a new literary hangout. Covarrubias, the Mexican caricaturist, who has the sleek look of a professional dancer.

Nothing looks so helpless as an over-turned steam roller. Vanity Fair. The circular window that casts the shadow of a noose over the entrance to a police station. Gray-haired men with colored collars and wide eyeglass ribbons. An exquisite cafe features bread pudding. And it's a dish.

Those $15 "Factory Rejected" clothing shops. Golf bags with umbrella attachments. Two truck loads of flowers—probably another gunman bit the dust. Whatever became of Mayor Hyland? Orchid-hued tire covers. Reckless sidewalk roller skaters. Self-conscious husbands airing Pekes and Poms. Jerome Beatty.

An old man in front of a window mirror removing something from his long beard—maybe it's a meadowlark. New York still buys those hook-on bow ties. Usually something dreary and desolate about a building where you once lived. Joseph Urban, a great artist who doesn't look the part. Frank Fay back on Broadway.

Those striking blondes who swath themselves in black—and sit demurely in hotel lobbies. Vincent Lopez's big diamond ring. The Japanese restaurant in the Fifties where you cook food at your own table. DeWolf Hopper as straight as an arrow. As Bugs Bear observed: "To know him is to marry him."

The average New Yorker sees little of its foreign language press. Most of these newspapers are sold on the congested East Side. And indication of their progress is shown in the recent sale of Il Progresso Italio-Americano for $2,052,000. Included in the polyglot array are four Arabic and three Slovakian journals, and the Chinese colony supports two dailies.

* * *

Broadway also supports a half hundred weekly and monthly midget periodicals devoted chiefly to "dishing the dirt." While a few are sustained by polite blackmail, the majority appeal almost solely to those with an eager hunger for salacious gossip about the White Way and its big spots.

Swank swatters should find a target for their bricks in a hat shop which blandly announces "headgear for those listed in the Social Register." We bet most of the sizes are 6½.

* * *

A late night arrival at Grand Central approached the driver of a disreputable looking taxi and sneeringly inquired: "Do you think this cab will last until I reach my hotel?"

"No," was the indifferent reply without even looking up from his tabloid. And, there being no other cab in sight, the gentleman walked.

The nighthawk taxi driver is the hardest of the hard-boiled babies, and he takes no back talk. His contact is chiefly with creatures of the night—drunks, gamblers, dope runners and those who prey. He is usually square shouldered, squat, and there is little space between his eyebrows and pang of hair.

* * *

A philosopher "philosophs" that Broadway success is when, after years of hunger, everybody tries to make you guest of honor at free dinners you do not need.

* * *

"In heaven's name," queries an excited lady in one of those bold, angular fashionable boarding school hands, "from what period did you come to journalism? You can hark back as far as grandpa."

My period was right after the tallow candle gave way to the wick lamp, and many historians credit my brilliance to that.

UNSKINNED CATS

By Herbert Kaufman

THERE'S always a substitute.

Old Mother Nature's cupboard may be bare on some shelf, but there's invariably a spare bone on the next.

Every substance has an equivalent in waiting.

The supply of whaleoil dwindles and Progress, the Wise Virgin, immediately fills our lamps with kerosene.

Fashion overtaxes the capacity of the silk worm, a shortage threatens—whereupon we grow long-headed and spin cellulose, which German scientists are already turning into cattle feed and promise to market as a breakfast dish.

Chemistry predicts that we'll eventually dine on sawdust and lumber chips. Quite probable, since sausages have worn wooden overcoats for years.

The only people faced by famines are folks who cling to inherited habits in raw materials.

Threatened gasoline depletion simply put the test tube on its mettle and sent constructive curiosity toward the coal bin to distil motor fuels from bituminous and lignite—with soap, paraffin, lubricants and wood alcohol as by-products of the process.

Meanwhile, with reverse English, Bureau of Standards experts are furnishing coal and coke from gasoline residues.

And now, to cap the climax, laboratories are refining a first-rate grade of sugar from sawmill refuse and extracting syrup from cottonseed hulls and peanut shells.

Whenever imagination puts on specs and rummages the universal attic or basement, soil and atmosphere promptly reveal additional stuffs and energies for another batch of inventions and a further group of industries.

Civilization needn't worry about necessary tools or structural supplies so long as snoopers stick to their lasts and tasks.

Toss that fact to pessimism and let confidence teeth on it.

There are countless ways to skin every cat. The trouble is that most men haven't taken their first pelt yet.

OH, THESE WOMEN

By Leola Allard

A MODERN girl, happily married two years, announces that she is going to Georgia because she had a wedding anniversary and wants to get out of the bore of celebrating it.

Out of a train window—a small town, just a group of frame houses. The ground covered with snow and the cold wind blowing. A pretty girl of about 19 in her back yard feeding the chickens from a big bowl. She had on a blue gingham dress, sleeveless and no hat and she was smiling happily and comfortably.

That's what no steam heat did for her!

One of these very fancy tearooms in New York, Spanish to the last pound of plaster. When you are inside you are given the impression of being on the outside, by being surrounded by the outside walls of Spanish homes, lights in the windows, trailing vines and flowers over the walls, a ceiling that is a blue sky dotted with stars—and everything.

At the entrance to a door that led to the kitchen was a sign in Spanish saying that you were prohibited from entering there. And as almost no one who went there knew Spanish they had considerable trouble keeping people from peeking in.

There is something to be said for the American way of hanging up a sign that says: "KEEP OUT." There isn't anybody so dumb that he can't get that.

They are so original on the West Coast: A husband locked his wife up in a room because he loved her so, and took her walking when he came home evenings. Then when they had two baby boys, as soon as they were old enough to talk he would question them and ask if their mother went out stepping while he was at work.

She got a divorce. I know one woman who, under like circumstances, would have been asking an acquittal.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

YOUR mind grows on what you feed it.

Then give it the right kind of food.

What are you feeding your mind?

Is it something that makes it grow more powerful from day to day?

Is it something that makes your mind more useful and serviceable as time goes on?

Or is it drivel, nauseating literature, that you allow to course through your mind centers?

There is always response to the line of thinking done.

How much have you grown in the past five years, say?

Made any advancement in the right direction?

Are you any better fitted to do your daily work than you were a year ago or even five years ago?

If you are without advancement you have really retrograded.

To keep a sane and well-balanced mind you must use it in the right way.
